Canutillo ISD ups pay

Canutillo Independent School District Board of Trustees approved during a special School Board meeting held Thursday (August 16) a compensation package that gives its employees a three percent pay increase across the board, with first year teachers receiving an additional adjustment to stay competitive with surrounding school districts for the 2007-08 school year. The increase gives teachers, librarians, and nurses a general pay raise of $1,750 and sets the beginning teachers' salary at $40,750. Also receiving an additional adjustment were teachers with one to nine years experience. "This increase was needed in order for the district to recognize and reward our valuable employees. We are especially pleased to make this investment in our teachers who daily impact our students in so many positive ways," said Dr. Pam Padilla, CISD superintendent.

More WNV

The El Paso City-County Health and Environmental District confirmed the diagnosis of two more human West Nile Virus (WNV) cases. The first case is in a 55-year-old Hispanic female. Her onset of symptoms was on August 3. She was admitted to a local hospital on Aug. 5 and was released on Aug. 9. The woman lives in the 79902 zip code near Downtown El Paso. The second case is in a 47-year-old Hispanic woman from the Sparks area of the County. She had an onset of symptoms on Aug. 4 and was admitted to a local hospital on Aug. 8. The woman remains hospitalized. This brings to three the total of human WNV cases reported in El Paso. Mosquitoes collected on Aug. 7 were found to be positive for WNV. Confirmation was received Aug. 13 from the Texas Department of State Health Services Laboratory in Austin that Culex Tarsalis mosquito specimens collected from a light trap set up on Socorro Road in San Elizario tested positive for WNV. Vector Control has intensified fogging in the San Elizario and Sparks areas of the County and also in the 79902 zip code area.

Murder

Police respond to a call of "man down," and find a man in a parking lot with no signs of life. Crime Stoppers and the El Paso Police Department ask for the public's help in solving our city's latest murder. On Saturday, Aug. 11, at 1:30 a.m., Police found 47-year-old Cleo Navarro dead in the parking lot at Desert Tree apartments, 9300 Montana. The officers called in detectives from the Crimes Against Persons Unit, whose preliminary investigation revealed that Mr. Navarro died from blunt force trauma early that morning. This is the city's 11th murder as compared to only 6 at this time last year. If you have

Medical practice opens in Horizon City

By Don Woodyard
Courier Staff Writer

HORIZON CITY—Fresh, brightly painted walls immediately catch your eye as you enter the recently opened First Horizon Medical Center at 14476 Horizon Blvd., Suite G.

With a family practice focus, the new medical facility opened Aug. 13. It is operated by Dr. Cecilia Del Moral and Marila Castellanos, FNP-C, a certified family nurse practitioner. They are open during the week from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. On Saturday the clinic is open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Del Moral says it wasn't the lure of a lucrative practice that brought her to Horizon City. "It isn't a chance to make a lot of money." She says she simply saw the need to serve the needs of sick people in an underserved area.

Serving those needs covers seven areas:

- Medical imaging (x-ray);
- Bone density;
- Laboratory services;
- Respiratory services;
- Minor emergency services;
- Employment, school and athletic physicals; and
- Texas Health Steps exams.

Her approach to her new medical practice is expressed in the center's mission statement:

"To provide and coordinate comprehensive medical services to the entire family. We will promote healthy lifestyles and continually strengthen the relationship between the clinic and the local community."

This is the second medical practice for Del

Moral who was born in Juarez and received her medical degree from the University of Guadalajara Medical School in 1977.

Her other concurrent medical practice is in internal medicine at William Beaumont Army Medical Center where she serves on the teach-

She works at WBAMC from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and then gets into her car and heads to Horizon City where she works from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. On Saturday she will work from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"Medicine is my passion," she says. "My patients are number one."

Castellanos, who is related to Del Moral, shares her passion for medicine.

"I love people. Ever since I was a little girl, I wanted to work in the medical profession."

The two met at a doctor's office and began exploring the possibility of a shared medical practice. First Horizon was the ultimate result

Canutillo ISD proposes tax roll back

By Alfredo Vasquez
Special to the Courier

Canutillo Independent School District is looking to make the most of state funding opportunities by proposing to the School Board that the district ask voters to approve a tax rate that is six cents above the state rollback rate for the 2007-08 school year.

CISD administration is recommending to the board of trustees a proposed tax rate of $1.39, which is .27 cents lower than last year's tax rate, but 6 cents over the rate allowed by law without voter approval. This rate will generate an additional $967,111 in state funds for 2007-2008 as well as additional state funds in 2008-2009.

CISD's rollback election would ask voters to approve a maintenance tax rate that is 10 cents higher than the $1 per $100 valuation mandated by the state. Cost to the owner of an average home worth approximately $125,000 would be about $100 more a year.

"CISD is a growing school district, exemplified by the addition of a new campus as well as facility additions to several existing campuses. These additions have impacted the district's proposed budget for fiscal year 2007-2008 in terms of additional campus personnel as well as additional utility costs. The district also needs to provide competitive salaries to attract and maintain top quality teachers," stated Tony Reza, CISD Executive Director for Business Services.

"The district is also planning to construct a second elementary school east of Interstate-10 in the next couple of years. By approving a rollback election, voters would allow the district to access those state funds for the next several years at a time when the total rate is going down, and demand for instructional services in the district is going up," Reza added.

CISD school board will hold a public hearing at 6 p.m., Monday, August 27, to discuss the preliminary budget and proposed tax rate.

San Eli ISD names new leaders

By Cynthia P. Marentes
Special to the Courier

Students might recognize some familiar faces in different places around San Elizario Independent School District (ISD) this school year. Several changes in administration were announced by Superintendent Dr. Michael Quatrini and confirmed by the district's Board of Trustees.

George Augustain was appointed Principal of Loya Primary School. Augustain, who was previously Principal at Borrego Elementary where he served for two years, has been with the district for 16 years. He has also served as Assistant Principal at both

Loya Primary and Sambrano Elementary. Taking over for Augustain at Borrego Elementary is Ernesto Seigel who was selected as the new Principal of the school from among several candidates. Seigel is very familiar to the campus having served as Assistant Principal for three years. In addition, Mr. Seigel also has seven years teaching experience with San Elizario ISD.

Alarcon Elementary will also have new leader on campus to fill the principal position left by Barbara Orozco who retired at the end of the previous school year. Mayela Sanchez was chosen as the Principal for Alarcon Elementary. Sanchez had been the school's Assistant Principal for the last two years. She has worked San Elizario ISD since 1997 in the positions of Assistant Principal at Loya Primary and Counselor at Sambrano Elementary.

Christine Jaksch was assigned to San Elizario High School as Assistant Principal. Jaksch came to San Elizario ISD in August 2000 and has served as Assistant Principal at both Loya Primary and Garcia-Enriquez Middle School. For the last three years, Jaksch was the Principal at Loya Primary.

Other changes in the districts' administrative team are appointments of three new directors: Melissa Urenda is now the Director of PEIMS; Raul Jacques is Director of Child Nutrition Services; and George Luevano is Director of Support Services.

One perspective

Tattoos and computer images

Some-where about the time that hoards of young Americans began to void their minds of sound reasoning by use of various hallucinogenic chemicals, say around the early 1960s or so, they became enraptured with the concept of reality.

It was almost as if their departure from reality made them long for it.

Over the ensuing 30-plus decades since the drug culture first flowered among America's youth, we grew up and started trying to run a society. Having lost any semblance of a true-north moral compass, we replaced it by clinging to the concept that if a thing is "real" it is somehow "good." Since reality had permanently left planet earth for a safer, more sane location, we had to rummage around to find something to defend as being honest and truthful.

So what do we come up with? Why, tattoos and computer images, of course.

There is a whole segment of supposed adults who are bemoaning the fact that the tattoo culture has become contaminated by — audible gasp from the audience — erasable tattoos!

Now, I'm not talking about the rub-off kind we use to train our kids to act like we do. No, I'm talking about a gen-u-ine, under-the-skin ink injection that can be safely and painlessly removed.

Eat your heart out, Angelina! Nowadays, a girl can have any guy's name emblazoned on her person with the full confidence that, should things not work out, as is pretty much to be expected, she can go back to her tattooist and with a swipe of a laser beam, watch the whole thing fade harmlessly away into her blood stream.

The secret is a polymer coating used to encase the ink into minuscule beads which are injected into the skin. Left un-lasered, your tattoo will remain forever grossly in place. However, if you don't want it anymore, all you need is a laser gun, which hopefully comes equipped with a trained operator.

No more worrying about your artificial tattoo washing off in the shower. Go ahead — use a little soap! Now you can have the "real" thing without the haunting idea that you might someday have to undergo years of painful skin-sanding to remove it.

Now why this would be disturbing to anyone is pretty strange all on its own, but stranger still are the tattoo artists and those who have gone under the needle who say this has thoroughly undermined the "truth" and "reality" behind getting a tattoo. After all, they say, isn't that what life is supposed to be all about — pain and regret?

Meanwhile, there's this guy who lost his job because he used graphics arts technology to erase some junk details from photos he produced for a newspaper.

This guy had a body of work that had won him many awards — pictures of people and events that had occurred in his community. However, he has been drummed out of the newsroom for utilizing Adobe Photoshop to erase a pair of legs protruding from behind a school banner in the far right hand corner of a sport photo. The legs had nothing to do with the integrity of the picture. In fact, had he simply "cropped" the picture, which is a long-accepted and necessary practice in newsrooms the world over, the legs would have been gone anyway.

However, in a vain attempt to defend its terminally ill integrity, the media community decried his use of technology to remove tree branches, utility poles, electrical cords and the like from his news photos. He was forced to resign in disgrace.

I say, get over it already.

Tattoos aren't sacred and neither is the news media's so-called credibility. The ability to remove the consequences of a bad judgment call like a tattoo is probably something we should be glad about. Doctored-up photos in the media are so common as to not even rate mentioning anymore. For the news media community to suddenly get up in arms about it is nothing short of laughable.

I wish we would take some of our preoccupation with reality and apply it to some real-life situations. We've allowed ourselves to wander on merry walks through the forest in which we never even realize that there are trees nearby.

There are way too many "real" issues out there for us to be concerned about — everything from world peace, a clean and plentiful supply of food and water, to whether or not we know where our kids are when the sun goes down.

The one thing we haven't figured out yet is how to pick our battles. Don't major in the minors, they say, but we waste extraordinary amounts of time and energy on inconsequential.

Real important stuff, you know, like tattoos and computer images.

Reyes Reports By U.S. Rep. Silvestre Reyes

Security conference a success

Last week, University of Texas at El Paso President Dr. Diana Natalicio and I had the opportunity to welcome several top national security officials to El Paso.

The Fourth Annual Border Security Conference, "Securing and Managing Our Borders," featured U.S. Department of Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff, Director of National Intelligence Mike McConnell, other high ranking government officials from both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border, local El Paso leaders as well as private industry experts. The culmination of these high-profile visits resulted in the most successful Border Security Conference yet and is indicative of our community's strategic value in the overall security of our country.

The call for diversity in our intelligence community was a recurring theme at this year's conference. As Chairman of House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, I know that having a diverse workforce with a multitude of cultures, languages and backgrounds is key if we are to succeed in attaining the best possible intelligence to keep our country safe. I have worked hard to ensure that each agency within the intelligence community maintains vigorous initiatives to produce the highly-skilled and diverse workforce necessary to respond effectively to evolving global threats.

Perhaps the most memorable moment of the conference was the attendance of Jose Rodriguez, Director of the National Clandestine Service. For the first time ever, Director Rodriguez revealed his true identity after having to keep it secret, in the interest of national security, for over 30 years. As the highest ranking minority in the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), Director Rodriguez was involved in highly sensitive counter-intelligence operations. Recognizing his valuable contribution to the agency, the CIA is hoping that Director Rodriguez's career will inspire people of diverse backgrounds to pursue careers in the 16 agencies that make up the U.S. intelligence community. I had the distinct honor of presenting Director Rodriguez with a flag I had flown over the U.S. Capitol for him and in tribute to the many other men and women who continue to serve in clandestine operations around the world. While it is unlikely that the American public will ever hear of their efforts, let alone their successes, to keep us safe, we are greatly indebted to them for their selfless service to our country.

As a result of this successful conference and other innovative border-related programs, UTEP is emerging as a national leader in border security research. With the university's broad range of border studies opportunities and its ideal location on the U.S.-Mexico border, UTEP is poised to become the premier institution for border security and intelligence research. UTEP's recent designation as a Center of Academic Excellence by the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (DNI) indicates that the institution is already well on its way to achieve this distinction. Through the DNI Center of Excellence program, El Paso area students now have access to first-class training programs that will give them an edge in pursuing intelligence-related careers.

Conference attendees also had the opportunity to see and interact with representatives from several private sector companies that have developed cutting edge technologies to assist us with intelligence, information processing, communication, identity determination, and many other homeland security initiatives. Again, this was an excellent fit for UTEP, which has become a leader in educating the next generation of engineers and scientists that will lead the way in homeland security research.

The Fourth Annual Border Security Conference was a huge win, not only for our community and UTEP, but also the country as a whole. The discussions and visits that took place here on the border provided many out-of-town conferees with a deeper understanding of the border environment. This understanding will help our nation's top security officials in crafting policies that will help keep us safe from terrorist threats while preserving the social and economic vitality of our binational community.

Por la Gente By State Rep. Chente Quintanilla

Be cautious with Medicare plans

Hola mi gente, Last week, I held a press conference to convey to the public my concerns about insurance practices and Medicare. Our seniors and those receiving Medicare benefits are very vulnerable to those unscrupulous insurance agents who chose to act like predators.

I would like to thank KDBC TV, KINT TV, the El Paso Times, and Diario de El Paso for covering the press conference. I was disappointed that KTSM and KVIA did not think that seniors deserved the attention. I especially would like to commend Monica Balderrama of KFOX TV for her coverage of the problem going back several weeks and two excellent pieces of journalism.

Medicare used to be a simple program administered by the Federal Government. Those who received benefits knew what the benefits were and what the restrictions were. Then one day the program was in a sense privatized and insurance companies administered the benefits thereafter. At the beginning, it was obvious that Medicare clients were then required to choose from a confusing, unclear buffet of plans. Insurance agents who chose to do so could very easily take advantage of clients and make Medicare a source of easy income by pressuring them to change plans.

This is where my concerns lie. I have talked to many seniors who complain that an agent talked them into changing because their plan offered one single benefit that was better than their current plan. Once the new plan was in effect, the Medicare client found that other parts of the plan was worse for them: higher deductibles, change of doctors or hospitals eligible for reimbursement, different dental or optometric coverages.

A very serious problem that is very common relates to prescription medication. Too many seniors told me that once they changed, they had trouble getting the same medication; or even just getting their medication. That is incredible. The prescriptions that seniors take daily are critical for them enjoying life; or, in some cases to survival. I cannot believe that insurance companies can overlook that fact for the sake of agent commissions and profit.

The problem is at the point that the agent meets with the Medicare client. At that time, the agent is intent on one thing: a signature that closes the deal and changes the plan. Once the signature is in place, he or she has the commission; somewhere between $500 and $1,000. I hope that any of you who are approached to change your plans will insist on a second or third appointment before changing plans. Talk to other family members or even other insurance agents. Ask for a clear comparison between your current plan and the new plan that is being sold.

Until the Department of Insurance promulgates new rules for agents to follow, Medicare clients are on their own. Let us all be proactive and help those clients avoid unnecessary problems by educating anyone we know about the actions of a few unscrupulous insurance agents who prey on vulnerable seniors.

Gracias mi gente from your public servant, Chente for la gente.

Vick finds out it is a dog eat dog world

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

Let's face it, most of us are put on this Earth for one thing and one thing only — to make Mom proud, of course.

From the day you're born to the day you check out, your life is judged by how proud you made mama.

Based on all that — I really feel bad for poor Mrs. Vick, mother of Michael and Marcus Vick.

All of you know about her first son, the Atlanta Falcons quarterback. Less people know about her equally talented son Marcus.

Mom had to stand by and watch her son Michael plead guilty to dog fighting charges.

She also had to stand there and watch her other son Marcus get kicked off the Virginia Tech football team after being arrested for following underage girls in 2004, convicted of three counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, charged with reckless driving and possession marijuana and giving the fans the finger after a game.

And who will ever forget the sight of Marcus stomping on the leg of Louisville defensive end Elvis Dumervil as he lay helpless on the ground.

Way to go guys, I wonder how many sleepless nights you've caused your mom to suffer through.

So now that Michael Vick will admit to holding and bankrolling dog fights, killing dogs brutally and gambling at those dogfights, what is going to become of him?

Can we already begin to call him the "former" Atlanta Falcons quarterback?

Now that Vick's buddies (along with three other willing witnesses) have all decided to spill the beans on the talented quarterback, it seems there's a real question — whether or not he has played his last professional football game.

One thing no one is talking about is Michael Vick's thought process. Media types are saying that if Vick apologizes and really shows he's sorry he should get back into the league soon enough.

I say the guy should never be allowed to pick up a football again. What kind of a sick, pathetic human being does what he did to defenseless animals?

For those who say the guy is taking responsibility for what he did by pleading guilty, I say hold on just a second. Michael Vick only pled guilty because he had no other choice. Only when all his dudes turned on him and admitted to what they (and Vick) did, did he see the writing on the wall.

The fact that he took so long to plead guilty proves he was trying to get away with murdering dogs. His back was against the wall.

Remember, Vick initially lied to everyone about his involvement in the dog fighting. He told everyone he was innocent and never even spent any time at the location where this ugliness took place.

It's one thing to be a man and admit his mistakes, it's quite another to be forced to come clean and pretend it was your idea in the first place.

Michael and Marcus Vick are two peas in a pod, two guys who are the worst that sports, and society can produce.

I have no doubt that their mom still loves them — but how disappointed she must be.

Dr. Steroids

How stupid does he think we are? You've got to love the attorney for the doctor who prescribed all those steroids to former pro wrestler Chris Benoit.

According to Manny Arora, the steroids that Dr. Phil Astin gave Benoit had absolutely nothing to do with the fact that Benoit was a professional wrestler.

Yeah right, and my extra 10 pounds had nothing to do with that large supreme pizza.

Arora said the steroids were actually prescribed to Benoit by his client for a hormone condition he suffered from. Arora went on to say, "the amount of medication in question was not excessive and would be medical appropriate based on the medical condition of Mr. Benoit."

Yeah, maybe if you're Bigfoot.

After Benoit strangled his wife, suffocated his son and hanged himself, investigators found he had 10 times the normal amount of testosterone in his body.

Good thing the amount of steroids prescribed was not excessive, huh?

Here's another example of a lawyer doing whatever he can to get a criminal off by lying through his teeth.

Hey, I've got the same question for Michael Vick, Dr. Phil Astin and attorney Manny Arora: "How do you guys sleep at night?"

Hard work pays off, Socorro campus sets high standards

By Irma Flores
Special to the Courier

Socorro ISD's Mission Early College High School is one of only two high schools in El Paso County ranked "Exemplary" by the Texas Education Agency. The school which opened in 2006 with a freshman class of 121 students was awarded the ranking in its first year. Mission ECHS students also outscored the seven other Early College High School Programs in Texas.

"It was exhilarating and it makes us feel proud to be one of just a few schools that were ranked as Exemplary," says Sophomore Zyanya Dickey. "We were hoping for good scores. Now we are just going to keep working hard and giving 110%."

An Exemplary rating means all student groups on the campus had 90 percent or more of their students pass each subject of the TAKS. Mission students scored 96% in Math and 100% in Reading.

"We are proud of the effort put forth by our students and teachers. We have students who are very dedicated and teachers who challenge them to exceed our high expectations," says Dr. Armando Aguirre, Mission ECHS Principal. "We are also proud that so many of our students were commended. This is our first year and it's a credit to our students, parents and teachers."

In its second year, Mission ECHS now has 250 students enrolled with the goal of completing their high school work and earning college credit at the same time.

"Our sophomore students set their expectations very high and they believe in the school's mission," says Frank Savina, Math Chair at Mission ECHS, of the school's first class of students. "They came in from different schools and it was good to see them forming a strong team. This year's freshman class knows what they have to do and are up to the challenge."

Savina who is proud of the effort of the students also praised the work of the teachers and staff at Mission.

"From BCIS to biology, they all supported our efforts. Even though those subjects were tested, they gave us full support and it's great to part of this team," says Savina.

In addition to Mission's "Exemplary" rating, five SISD campuses were "Recognized" by the TEA. The "Recognized" campuses are: Loma Verde Elementary School, Vista Del Sol Elementary School, Col John O. Ensor Middle School, Salvador Sanchez Middle School and William D. Slider Middle School.

NOTICE OF EFFECTIVE TAX RATE

2007 Property Tax Rates in Town of Horizon City

This notice concerns 2007 property tax rates for the Town of Horizon City. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:

Last year's operating taxes	$1,144,736
Last year's debt taxes	120,324
Last year's total taxes	1,265,060
Last year's tax base	408,083,871
Last year's total tax rate	0.310000/$100

This year's effective tax rate:

Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$1,264,352
+This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting value of new property)	414,621,391
=This year's effective tax rate	0.304941/$100

This year's rollback tax rate:

Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for any transferred function, tax increment financing, and/or enhanced indigent health care expenditures)	$1,144,096
+This year's adjusted tax base	414,621,391
=This year's effective operating rate	0.275938/$100
x1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate	0.298013/$100
+This year's debt rate	0.316833/$100
-This year's rollback rate	0.308094/$100
- Sales tax adjustment rate	0.070794/$100
=This year's total rollback rate	0.246039/$100

(Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings)

Statement of Increase/Decrease

If the Town of Horizon City adopts a 2007 tax rate equal to the rollback rate of $0.246039 per $100 of value, taxes would increase compared to 2006 taxes by $13,390.

SCHEDULE A - Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following estimated balances will be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Type of Property Tax Fund	Balance
Maintenance & Operation (M&O)	$1,857,895
Debt Service (I&S)	-0-

SCHEDULE B - 2007 Debt Service

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

Description of Debt	Principal or Contract to be Paid from Property Taxes	Interest to be Paid from Property Taxes	Other Amounts to be Paid	Total Payment
Ford Motor Credit	$7,896	$1,001	$-0-	$8,897
SIB Loan (Paving)	27,096	7,189	-0-	34,285
Gov't. Cap. (Vehicle)	4,878	703	-0-	5,581
Bond Service	20,000	29,032	-0-	49,032

Total required for 2007 debt service	$97,796
-Amount (if any) paid from funds listed in Schedule A	-0-
-Amount (if any) paid from other resources	-0-
-Excess collections last year	-0-
=Total to be paid from taxes in 2007	97,796
+Amount added in anticipation that the unit will collect only 100% of its taxes in 2007	-0-
=Total Debt Levy	$97,796

SCHEDULE C: Expected Revenue from Additional Sales Tax

In calculating its effective and rollback tax rates, the unit estimated that it will receive $367,851 in additional sales and use tax revenues.

This notice contains a summary of actual effective and rollback tax rate calculations. You can inspect a copy of the full calculations at the City of El Paso Tax Office located at the intersection of Durango and Franklin streets.

Guys are all about being gullible

By Don Flood

First off, I want to reassure people who have concerns about contaminated pet food, seafood, toothpaste and whatnot.

Let me state clearly, there is no cause for alarm. Not all consumer products have problems. Just the ones from China.

Um, Don, just about all U.S. consumer products are from China.

Oh, well, that is too bad then — moving on to other consumer news.

Here's the opening from a current TV commercial: "Guys are all about the technology."

For $10 million, see if you can guess which product is being advertised.

A. Phone gadget, including Internet access, camera and personal nuclear reactor.

B. Thimble-sized music system containing every song ever written including the famous bootleg Bob Dylan version of the Doublemint gum theme song.

C. Transporter device that offers users intergalactic travel services and remarkably fresh breath.

D. Deodorant gel, employing extraordinary, state-of-the-art 19th century technology.

If you guessed "D," congratulations on winning $10 million! (*Look for details at end of column.)

The ad, for Gillette 3x deodorant gel, shows these wholly imaginary, wing-like thing-a-ma-jigs bursting from the sides of the deodorant container. These things, apparently, are what make it "high-tech," even though they have no function and, more importantly, do not exist.

At the end of the commercial, a woman foolishly walks up to the deodorant container unescorted, causing its imaginary "high-tech" thing-a-ma-jigs to spring out.

She screams, presumably allowing male viewers to chuckle to themselves: "Silly women, they can't handle the technology in-involved with a real man's deodorant gel!"

(Full disclosure: If my deodorant container suddenly moved, I'd jump too.)

But we have even more disturbing developments on the deodorant news front.

A recent item said that as many as 5 million American men use Secret, which, as everybody should have learned in by the third grade, is: "Strong enough for a man, but made for a woman."

The slogan does NOT say: "Strong enough for a man, but made for a woman, not that a man can't use it and of course there's nothing wrong with that." (Even though that is a pretty catchy slogan.)

Men, what part of "made for a woman" don't you understand?

Use something manly before you do irreparable harm to your armpits!

Also on the consumer news front was the announcement that Pepsi will be a little clearer about where its Aquafina brand bottled water comes from: "P.W.S.," which stands for Public Water Supplies, also known as tap water.

Many restaurants, of course, will ask if you want tap or bottled water.

Considering many bottled waters are tap water, perhaps the following exchange would be appropriate:

SERVER: Would you like the free tap water or the outrageously high-priced tap water, so ridiculously expensive that if, God forbid, gasoline cost that much there would be mass hysteria, rioting in the streets and the likely overthrow of the federal government?

SHREWD CONSUMER: I'll have the second kind. It sounds more exciting.

Just make sure the water isn't from China.

(*Made you look, made you look!)
