Crime Stoppers

A man pulls out a handgun and holds it to the head of his victim, demanding cell phones, wallets, and money from the victim, his wife, and her parents, making this the Crime Stoppers "Crime of the Week." On Friday, April 9th, a little after 4:00 a.m., the victim along with his wife and mother-in-law drove to the Adult Video Store at 8760 Gateway East to assist the victim's brother-in-law, who had pulled into the parking lot with car problems. After the victim arrived, the suspect asked to use the victim's cell phone and then the cell phones of the others. When told they had no cell phones, the suspect pulled out a handgun and held it to the victim's head, demanding that all present turn over their money and wallets. Fearing for their lives, the victims did, and the suspect fled on foot — heading east on Gateway East. The suspect is described as an Hispanic male in his early 20s, approximately 5'8" to 5'11", with a thin to medium build, weighing about 145-170 pounds. He had a thin beard or goatee. The suspect was wearing distinctive clothing, which was described as light colored pointy-toed boots, and blue jeans with a gold or yellow design on the back pockets. He was also wearing a light-colored shirt with a silver design on the left front of the shirt. If you have any information about this suspect, please call Crime Stoppers at 566-TIPS (566-8477) or on-line at www.crimestoppersofelpaso.org. You will remain anonymous and, if your tip leads to an arrest, you can qualify for a cash reward.

Witte's lamb fetches $190,000 at auction

HOUSTON — Emotions ran high as the announcement of the 2010 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Grand and Reserve Grand Champions were named at the Junior Market Lamb and Goat Selection.

Sydney Witte, 15, a member of the El Paso County 4-H, exhibited the 2010 Houston Livestock Show Grand Champion Junior Market Lamb, a 145 pound Medium Wool, named Gangster. Witte lives in Clint and attends Clint High School.

"I was shaking before I went into the ring, and then the butterflies went away," Witte said. "And when I saw the judge coming for me, they [the butterflies] came right back."

Witte has been coming to the Show with her livestock projects since the third grade and hopes to attend college at either San Angelo State University or Texas A&M University.

Gangster sold for a world record price of $190,000 on March 12. That translates to $1,310.34 a pound. The buyers, the Hildebrand family, bought the lamb in memory of Ruth Hildebrand. Witte will receive $40,000; scholarships, including the Show's Hildebrand Scholarship, will receive $140,000; and $10,000 will be used to help other exhibitors.

Since beginning in 1932, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo has committed more than $250 million to the youth of Texas.

CANUTILLO — Canutillo High School (CHS) senior Mario Gonzalez, a student in the culinary arts program, recently placed third in the state baking competition, during the 2010 Texas Skills USA Leadership & Skills Conference, held in Corpus Christi this March.

Gonzalez was the only student from the El Paso area who qualified to compete in the championship by taking first in district. He competed against all first place winners from other Texas school districts. About 5,800 students, teachers and other participants from across the state competed in more than 100 trade and industrial competitions during the three-day event.

According to CHS Culinary Arts Program

instructor, Chef Charlie Simpson, the opening and management of the CHS student run café helped Gonzalez and his fellow students in preparation for competition. Gonzalez, who concentrated on pastries, baking, and overall deserts throughout the year, is aspiring to be a pastry chef.

Gonzalez has been accepted and plans to attend Johnson & Wales University at the Denver, Colorado campus, as an undergraduate student in the college of culinary arts. This university has developed an international reputation for excellence in instruction, faculty and facilities and is considered the world's leading educator in Culinary Arts.

"Mario is truly a talented and unique individual, I am really proud of him," said Chef Simpson. "Remember his name, he will be famous when he fine tunes his talent," he added.

Veterans Post By Freddy Groves

Contaminated water at Camp Lejeune

Through the years, as many as a million people at Camp Lejeune have been exposed to chemicals in the drinking water. For those who lived there, there's no doubt in their minds that it was those chemicals — dry cleaning solvents, fuel from the fuel farm — that caused deaths and illnesses. Children came down with leukemia, veterans got male breast cancer, there were pregnancy and low birth-weight problems and more. And, of course, they've filed claims, wanting compensation.

For decades, there has been foot-dragging of the highest order by the Marine Corps: failure to close the wells for years, incomplete reports, reports that didn't mention all of the contamination, and so on.

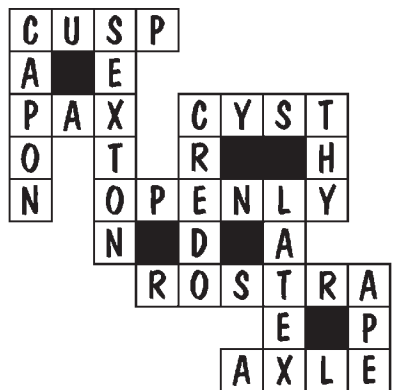

New documents were unearthed that added a dangerous chemical to the mix: Benzene was found as far back as 1984. From one set of test documents to another, however, the amount of benzene changed from 380 parts per billion, to 38 parts per billion, to nothing. At one point it wasn't mentioned at all. Suddenly, more recently, a report showed a whopping 3,490 parts per billion.

The Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry, which for years has been fighting to get cooperation as it studies the health effects of the contamination, got a big shock recently: 700,000 more documents about the Camp Lejeune water contamination have been "discovered." It makes one wonder how many more there are.

To get up to speed on the newest information, check www.atsdr.cdc.gov/ and put Camp Lejeune in the search box. And keep an eye on this Web site: The Few, The Proud, The Forgotten at www.tftptf.com.

Health bill good for people

Hola mi gente. There have been many stories about the number of uninsured people who live in El Paso County. According to data provided by the office of Congressman Ciro Rodriguez, our county has 281,540 individuals under the age of 65 who have no personal health insurance. Included in that number, there are 57,253 individuals under the age of 18 who are not covered under a health insurance plan.

In reality, if any those individuals have a medical need, they will receive some treatment. I am not referring to colds or upset stomachs. Every one of us will have a moment in our lives when an extreme medical ailment overcomes us. Without proper medical attention, a condition that normally is overcome becomes a debilitating experience or worse results in death. In such a situation, there will be medical assistance provided.

The uninsured for the most part are unable to pay premiums. For them it is a matter of prioritizing food or a mortgage payment.

So what happens when the worst occurs. The patient will receive whatever stabilizing treatment is necessary and will be billed. The inability to pay the high medical bill may result in a mortgage foreclosure; or, it may result in a write off for the expenses. In any case, our current situation is not good for our community.

The residents of El Paso will experience the consequences in higher medical costs; or higher property taxes that support the hospital district; or higher real estate costs. The high number of uninsured people in our county has a much bigger cost to us locally than most understand.

Because of our situation, it is confusing why some in our community are so vociferous against the recently passed health care legislation. El Paso stands to benefit tremendously by having so many of the currently uninsured covered by some form of health insurance.

Currently, high school graduates who go on to college cannot be covered under their parents plan. They now can continue their coverage until they reach age 26. That takes care of thousands of middle class students.

Many of the uninsured are those who are denied coverage because of pre-existing conditions. Chronic medical such as diabetes are costly.

Now no one will be subject to any insurance company denying them health care insurance.

Recently, a baby was born in Houston with a serious heart defect. Three days after the baby was born, the family was notified by the insurance company that the coverage for the baby was denied because of a pre-existing condition. The high cost of keeping that baby alive and healthy would be passed on to the community; or the cost would be the babies death.

During the next few weeks, I will touch again on the new health care law. With the help of our congressmen, I hope to provide some information that will help you appreciate the reforms.

We can either accept the new legislation and work the kinks out in a bipartisan manner in the future. Or, we settle for what was in place before. We have a choice between a healthcare policy that addresses the health of millions of Americans and a healthcare policy that addresses the economic needs of healthcare insurance companies. I hope we choose people over corporations.

I remain your friend and public servant, Chente por la gente

Fabens chili cookoff warms up brisk day

— Photos by Don Woodyard

PLACED — Horizon City resident Carol Straughan cooked her way to second place in the Second Annual Fabulous Fabens Chili Cookoff held last Saturday.

By Don Woodyard
Special to the Courier

FABENS — The weather was a little chilly, but the chili was hot.

That was the savory and festive atmosphere for several hundred people who came out to the 2nd Annual Fabulous Fabens Chili Cookoff last Saturday at the Fabens Airport.

There were no planes in sight.

Make no mistake, chili ruled the runways as chefs toiled passionately over simmering pots of their own special recipes. They carefully stirred in their own secret ingredients in hopes of titillating the taste buds of the 12 judges.

The cookoff is a fundraising event of the East El Paso Rotary Club. Proceeds support the Fabens Community Food Pantry, according to Bill Sparks, the club's event coordinator.

One of the judges was El Paso County Sheriff Richard Wiles who said he really enjoyed coming out to judge the entries. This is his second year as a judge.

Prizes were awarded for the Top 10 winners who were selected from the 19 entries. There was also a People's Choice award and recognition for the best salsa. The chili entries were judged on color, texture, taste, after taste and aroma.

The first three place winners, respectively, earn four, three and two points each. Fourth through 10 place winners receive one point each. It takes 12 points for a person to qualify to compete in the world-famous Terlingua Chili Cookoff.

Chili champion honors went to Dick Rogers of La Luz, N.M.

Second place went to Carol Straughan of Horizon City. A veteran chili cook, she says she has been entering competitions since 1985. Her second place ranking is much better than her ninth-place finish in last year's Fabens' chili cookoff.

Recalling when she started, she says it "seemed like an interesting thing to do. I enjoy the camaraderie — the family atmosphere.

She is a member of CASI (Chili Appreciation Society International). The local chapter is Pod of the Pass. For more information on the society, call her at 852-3599.

Rounding out the Top Three winners was Bud Barrick of Organ, N.M.

Other winners, in order from fourth to 10th place were Bobby Elliott, El Paso; Tom Chaney, Anthony, N.M.; Mary Rogers, La Luz; Mary Hernandez, El Paso; Don Stoppiro, El Paso; Jason Rasberg, Chapparral, N.M.; and Debra Stoppiro, Chapparral.

First place in the Showmanship category went to Chili Chuck Gonzales of El Paso with his "Chili Wapo." Gary Buck of Chapparral earned second place with his "Maisis Dragon." The "Texas Wrangler," prepared by Donna Von Gentz of El Paso took third.

Andy Dindinger and Luis Palacios won the People's Choice award. It is a separate category, and they were not in competition for the CASI chili cookoff.

Dindinger was also the salsa winner.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

- It was beloved American comedian and actor Bob Hope who made the following extremely sage observation: "People who throw kisses are hopelessly lazy."
- Next time you're in Tinseltown, remember that it is unlawful to herd more than 3,000 sheep at a time down Hollywood Boulevard.
- In the naming of American states, there a quite a few that never quite made it. It's interesting to speculate about the possibilities, though. For instance, if you currently reside in the state of Kentucky or parts of Tennessee, but for the whimsy of fate you could be a Transylvanian. Some people once wanted to take parts of Texas and Oklahoma to create the great state of Texlahoma (perhaps displaying a slight lack of imagination). When the Mormon church settled out west, Brigham Young petitioned to have the state of Deseret created, and the land he suggested make up the state included present-day Utah, almost all of Nevada and Arizona, a sizable chunk of California and bits of five other states. Long Island, in New York, even had designs on statehood at one time.

- In the 19th century, ice accounted for more shipping than any other commodity except cotton.
- William Howard Taft, the 18th president of the United States, was a large man. Quite a large man. In fact, he was so large that his 300-pound bulk got stuck in a White House bathtub, and he had to summon help to extricate himself.
- The French town of Versailles was originally built solely to house the staff of the extravagant palace.

individual event competitors represented Mountain View High School at the four day conference and competition.

Karen Morales and Griselda Higareda placed in their events at the state competition qualifying them for national competition. Both will advance to the 2010 National Leadership Conference, "Shoot for Success", in Anaheim, California in early May. They will join over 5,000 other conference delegates from across the nation to participate in national level business skills competitions, workshops, general sessions and other activities.

"The conference will be the culmination of a school year's worth of business skills education and training which members of the local chapter of BPA at Mountain View High School have received," said chapter advisor and Mountain View High School teacher, Dustin Blystone.

Business Professionals of America is a national organization for High School, college, and middle school students preparing for careers in business and information technology. The organization's activities and programs complement classroom instruction by giving students practical experience through application of the skills learned at school. BPA is contributing to the preparation of a world-class workforce through the advancement of leadership, citizenship, academic, and technological skills.

Mountain View High School chapter of BPA is continuing a tradition of success in competition. Students and teams of the chapter have advanced to state and national competition winning numerous events over the last several years.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.

NFL draft, trades and cuts could shake football up

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

The NFL draft takes place this week and the event could be described as “must-see TV.”

There’s already been some interesting movement leading up to this weekend which usually means there’ll be more fireworks to come.

The big news, of course, made headlines last week when the Philadelphia Eagles did what no one really thought they would — trade Donovan McNabb.

And even those who were not all that surprised by the move — were shocked that the Eagles would trade him to the NFC East rival Washington Redskins.

Then there was the news that the Pittsburgh Steelers got rid of former Super Bowl hero Antonio Holmes. Seems the Steelers organization got tired of the receiver’s antics and proved once again that no player is bigger than the team.

We’ve seen both Brady Quinn and Derek Anderson shown the door by the Cleveland Browns. Defensive end Julius Peppers and running back Chester Taylor are now with the Chicago Bears. Cornerback Antonio Cromartie is now a New York Jet and receiver Anquan Boldin will catch passes for the Baltimore Ravens.

Jake Delhomme will try to take over as the Arizona Cardinals quarterback for the retired Kurt Warner and the always-disgruntled Brandon Marshall is off to Miami Dolphins.

These aren’t all the moves that have taken place but just some of the bigger ones. And now the speculation begins on what will happen on draft night.

Much of the talk has been swirling around four quarterbacks, Oklahoma’s Sam Bradford, Notre Dame’s Jimmy Clausen, Texas’ Colt McCoy and Florida’s Tim Tebow.

All the mock draft guys on ESPN have been screaming over each other on who they feel is the top signal caller.

The only two college QBs I might consider drafting would be Bradford and Clausen. I think McCoy and especially Tebow are products of their respective systems and will struggle in the NFL.

Another question is which other NFL vets will be traded on draft night? The way things have been going the chances are very high that some eyebrows will be raised.

And that’s why this year’s selection show should be better than most.

Don’t forget there’s still a distinct possibility there will be no football in 2011 so teams are going to do their best to take advantage of their last chance to improve things.

Of course for Washington Redskins owner Daniel Snyder — it’ll be one last chance to really mess things up.

Cutting back

If you’ve lived in the United States for any amount of time over the last few years you know the country is suffering through an economic meltdown.

People (not the government) are tightening their belts to make their dollars go as far as possible.

The economic crunch has hit every part of the country. It’s even hit at the very base of college athletes — its sports teams.

The University of California-Davis announced this week that it is getting rid of men’s swimming and diving, wrestling and indoor track and field. It is also dumping the women’s rowing program.

The cuts will affect 153 athletes and seven coaches, who will lose their jobs as of July 1.

UC Davis officials said the cuts ($2.9 million) are necessary because of the cut in state funds going to help fund the programs.

But sports weren’t the only casualties of the budget woes. The college has also eliminated some courses, increased class sizes, reduced student services and has decreased student enrollment.

But UC Davis is not alone.

The University of Cincinnati wiped out scholarships for men’s track, cross-country and swimming while Stanford informed its fencing teams to look for other financing.

Massachusetts dropped its ski teams, and Kutztown University in Pennsylvania eliminated its men’s soccer and men’s swimming teams.

The University of Washington said it would cut its swimming teams to save as much as $1.2 million. The University of Maine cut its men’s soccer and women’s volleyball programs.

Heck, even MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology) announced it was cutting eight teams — Alpine skiing, competitive pistol, golf, wrestling and men’s and women’s ice hockey and gymnastics — as a way to trim $1.5 million from its athletic budget.

And professional athletes wonder why fans get upset when they grumble for only making $14.4 million instead of the $18.8 million they feel they deserve.

Your good health By Paul G. Donahue, M.D.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm beginning to get little knobs on my finger joints. I believe this is arthritis, and I have seen it in the advanced stages. What can I do to prevent it from getting worse? — Anon.

won't hurt you. The arthritis booklet deals with osteoarthritis, also called degenerative arthritis. Readers can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 301W, Box 536475 Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

The knobs on the finger joints below the fingernail are Heberden's nodes, named after an English doctor who died at the start of the 19th century. Knobs on the middle finger joints are Bouchard's nodes, named after a French doctor who died in the early years of the 20th century. Both of these knobs are signs of osteoarthritis — the common kind of arthritis, the kind that most seniors have at least a touch of. They're similar to bone spurs seen on backbones and other bones, another consequence of osteoarthritis.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: For quite some time, my right shoulder has hurt. I saw an orthopedic doctor, who says I have a tear of my rotator cuff. He suggested surgery. What do you think of surgery for this? I am scared that I could be worse off after the operation than I am now. I am only 44 and am quite active. — K.M.

Osteoarthritis comes from fraying of the cushioning cartilage inside joints. How extensive or how incapacitating it will be is unpredictable. Most people manage to get along in spite of it. However, it can be a great burden to others.

The rotator cuff is a band made up of the tendons of four back muscles. The tendons wrap around the topmost part of the upper arm bone, the humerus, to keep the bone in the shoulder socket. Tears of the rotator cuff are a common problem and one of the principal causes of shoulder pain. Small tears can heal on their own. Larger tears almost always require surgical correction. All surgical procedures demand respect. Something can always go wrong. Most people who have had surgery to correct a rotator cuff tear are glad they had it. By most, I mean more than 95 percent. I would not hesitate to have this surgery.

There is no preventive medicine to stop osteoarthritis in its tracks. It has a predilection for the fingers, hips, knees and spine. Should it strike larger joints like hips, knees and backbones, muscle strengthening will serve you well. Strong muscles protect joints. The exercise should not be so vigorous that it causes pain, but it should be vigorous enough to encourage strength building. Being overweight increases the stress on knees and hips, so you should strive to stay on the lean side.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him or request an order form of available health newsletters at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. (c) 2010 North America Synd., Inc. All Rights Reserved.

Many people swear to the effectiveness of chondroitin and glucosamine, both of which are available without a prescription, and often they come in combination. Not a lot of evidence exists to endorse them wholeheartedly, but if you want to give them a try, they Fabens Airport last Saturday.

1. Seven Ford Mustangs were on display and put on an impromptu show, Sparks said. They performed "burnouts," an action in which the driver revs up the engine and spins the wheels of the car, generating a large amount of smoke.

2. Visitors to the cookoff also saw colorful folklorico dancers. One group was from O'Donnell Middle School in the Fabens ISD. The second folklorico group was from Viva! El Paso.

"They did fantastic," Sparks added. Sparks also extends special thanks to Alfredo and Lucy Olivas of Olivas Aviation at the airport for their "very gracious" support in providing space for the cookoff.

Major sponsors for the event were Superior Healthcare and Barnett Harley-Davidson.

"This cookoff has been very well received by the chili cooks," Straughan says. "I'm sure that next year's will continue to grow and even more chili cooks will participate due to the positive feedback."
