Mini Digie

Mini Digie, the mobile version of the El Paso Museum of History's Digital Wall, Digie, will be stationed at the El Paso Museum of Archaeology during April, museum officials announced during a recent opening reception at the archaeology museum (4301 Transmountain Road). Museum officials said that the Mini Digie program can be used actively by one person at a time but that groups of friends and families can use it together. Mini Digie is 28.25 inches wide, 77 inches high and 81.5 inches long. It weighs about 600 pounds and contains more than 7,000 images pertaining to El Paso. Plans are to have the Mini Digie component visit other public meeting places- such as the mission trails association, airport, schools, and libraries- in the following months, stated officials.

Renters' rights

Renters in the El Paso area will soon have a new resource available to educate them on their legal rights, thanks to funding from the El Paso Bar Foundation. Currently under development by Texas Rio Grande Legal Aid (TRLA), Know Your Rights: Tenant Edition is a comprehensive booklet that will contain information on a renter's legal rights regarding issues such as security deposits, repairs, landlord retaliation, breaking a lease, and eviction. The El Paso Bar Foundation has awarded TRLA funds that will allow the organization to develop the booklet in both English and Spanish as well as distribute it throughout El Paso County. "The support of the El Paso Bar Foundation is critical to producing this new resource and making sure it gets into the hands of El Paso renters," said TRLA Executive Director David Hall. "These funds will go a long way towards helping renters know their rights and how to advocate for themselves and their families." TRLA helps more than 2,500 El Paso families with their civil legal issues every year. Many of those families need assistance with housing problems including obtaining lowincome housing, avoiding an eviction, and dealing with an unresponsive landlord. TRLA assists more than

To provide information in water-saving irrigation systems, the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service is offering special training sessions for anyone who works with or manages landscape irrigation systems.

"These courses are designed for Texas licensed irrigators, technicians and inspectors to get the required continuing education units to renew their licenses. However, other groups such as city or utility park employees can attend and benefit greatly from these classes. Even if not licensed, anyone who works with or manages landscape irrigation systems can benefit from these trainings," Charles Swanson, an AgriLife Extension irrigation specialist, stated in a recent news report.

The first irrigation course is the Landscape Irrigation Auditing and Management (LIAM) short course, explained. which will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., April 14 and from 8:15 a.m. to 5 course includes copies of the LIAM p.m., April 15, at the TecH2O Center, software and manual, Swanson said. The 10751 Montana Ave. Cost for the training software is available to students upon sessions is $265.

The second course, the Drip Irrigation

Both courses are taught by College Station instructors, Swanson and Dr. Guy Fipps, an AgriLife Extension specialist and irrigation engineer. The courses are conducted by the Texas A&M School of Irrigation's Irrigation Technology Program, in cooperation with El Paso Water Utilities and AgriLife Extension for El Paso County.

The two-day LIAM course teaches students how to conserve water through landscape irrigation auditing. The course covers eight steps of auditing, including prioritizing audit sites, conducting field tests to measure system performance, calculating irrigation schedules and producing audit reports.

Students gain hands-on experience by performing two actual audits that include system troubleshooting, testing individual station performance, and identifying soil types and effective root depth, Swanson

If you have a family history of type 2 diabetes, you are at risk of the disease.

It's about small steps: Lose a small amount of weight by walking or biking for 30 minutes 5 days a week, and by making healthy food choices, to prevent or delay type 2 diabetes. In fact, these small steps work even better for people over 60 than for any other age group.

San Elizario ISD receives grant to support homeless education

By Cynthia P. Marentes Special to the Courier

SAN ELIZARIO - The San Elizario Independent School District (SEISD) will now have more resources to serve children and youth experiencing homelessness. The District received notification on March 30 that it had been selected as a recipient of the Texas Support for Homeless Education Program (TEXSHEP) subgrant.

"Children in homeless situations may live in a chaotic environment. We hope this grant will help our staff bring a sense of normalcy to these students by providing a sense of support," Superintendent Sylvia Hopp said.

There are currently 3,925 students enrolled in SEISD schools and approximately 5 percent are considered homeless. Students are considered as living in a homeless situation if they "lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence," according to the federal definition found in the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act of 2001 – Title X, Part C of the No Child Left Behind Act – Sec. 725.

SEISD was chosen to receive the TEXSHEP subgrant after a thorough evaluation by outside reviewers and staff as well as the quality of its application submitted back in December 2014. The award amount will be up to $17,046 for the first year of a three-year project beginning on September 1, 2015.

The TEXSHEP sub grants come from the McKinney-Vento Education for Homeless Children and Youth federal funds and are administered in Texas by the Region 10 Education Service Center, the Texas Homeless Education Office at the Charles A. Dana Center at the University of Texas at Austin, and the Texas Education Agency. Funding must be used to facilitate the enrollment, attendance, and success in school of homeless children and youth.

prevent diabetes than it is to treat it. Diet and exercise are proven to help prevent diabetes in everyone, even your less-common situation of being normal or underweight and at risk for diabetes.

The most important part of diet is to avoid simple sugars. Processed grains are converted extremely rapidly to sugar in the body. The added fiber and protein of whole grains slows this process down somewhat; however, I still would recommend having your grains with some healthy fat and protein. Nuts, olive oil and healthy vegetable spreads go great with whole-grain rolls and slow down absorption. By having foods in combination, you can reduce diabetes risk.

Don't forget about exercise, the other key to preventing diabetes. Any exercise is better than none. Walking is a great form of exercise that takes no special equipment and can be done anywhere. At 10,000 steps a day, which is not very hard to build up to, the risk of diabetes is significantly decreased. An inexpensive pedometer can keep track of your steps and may motivate you to reach your goal.

> Depression can be a terrible disease, but for most people there are effective treatments. Zoloft is in the class of medications called SSRIs, and these work in the brain where nerve cells communicate with each other.

> There are some studies and a lot of experience with using these medications long term. They are mostly safe, better than placebo and certainly better than the risk of recurrent depression, which after three episodes is very high. FIGURE! by Linda Thistle hours of Monday, March 23, 2015, four suspects broke the glass door to the Target store located at 1901 George Dieter. The suspects made their way to the electronics department where they took 14 Apple I-Pads, four X-Box game consoles and other similar items. The suspects left the store quickly and fled the scene. In total they took more than eight thousand dollars in merchandize. The suspects were all dressed in dark clothing and hid their faces with masks. The burglary took place at about 3 a.m., and investigators are certain that someone knows the identity of those involved in this burglary. Anyone with information on these burglars is asked to call Crime Stoppers of El Paso immediately at 566-8477 (TIPS), on-line at www. crimestoppersofelpaso.org or you can send a text message by entering the key word "CRIME1" (no space and another league: The Big East.

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥ RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.

That little brown box and that fledgling sports network (third button from the left on the second row) changed everything. All of those phony wrestling story lines were replaced by an even more colorful cast of the most implausible group you can imagine – a bunch of kids and the coaches that loved them shooting hoops for the Tri-State area's local Catholic colleges, colleges that most of the nation west of I-95 had never heard of. What's a Hoya? Which exit for Seton Hall? You play games at Rhode Island? What's with that guy's sweater?

Let's stop there for a moment. The guy wearing the sweater was Lou Carnesecca. He was the coach of St. Johns. His shooting guard was Chris Mullin, and the kid was lights out. He's the guy that's going to be recruiting you, the guy who's going to be coaching you, and dealing with the boosters and the press. Real quick, here's his resume:

Education: McDonald's High School All-American, three-time Big East player of the year, threetime All-American and winner of both the Oscar Robertson and John Wooden Awards, which is basically the basketball Heisman.

Professional experience: Fivetime NBA All-Star, averaged 20 points per game, GM of the Golden State Warriors, VP of the Sacramento Kings.

Volunteer work: Two-time Olympic Gold Medal winner, original member of the 1996 "Dream Team."

Awards: Yeah. He's in the Hall of Fame. All of them.

To the detractors, let's reason this out. The kids may not know who he is, but the parents sure do, and he knows the academic part of the equation because he's already done that... he went there. Boosters? You're welcome. All that's left for Mullin is our anticipation of what's on next.
