EPCC theater

El Paso Community College (EPCC) Summer Theater continues its 2017 season with A Masterpiece of Comic... Timing. The play is about a Broadway producer who wants to write the next comedy hit. He hires a writer who is suffering from depression and no one knows why. They try to make him happy so that he will write the next hit show. The play is written by Robert Caisley and directed by EPCC Theater Instructor, Matthew Smith. Performances are scheduled for June 30, July 1, 7 and 8 at 8:00 p.m. and July 2 and 9 at 2:30 p.m. The EPCC Summer Theater performs at the EPCC Forum Theater, 9570 Gateway North. General Admission is $15, non-EPCC students and military are $10 and EPCC students/staff and senior citizens are $7. Tickets are available at the door. The box office opens two hours before each performance. All proceeds from the EPCC Summer Theater benefits student scholarships. For theater information call (915) 831-5056.

Discounts

Too many older Americans lose out on discounts when they shop or go to a restaurant or a movie because they fail to ask whether they are entitled, says the Association of Mature American Citizens. But, 59-year-old entrepreneur Steve Mitchener says his new cell phone app automatically notifies you of available discounts. The app is called Skiddy and it uses GPS technology to alert you when a discount is offered. You'll hear a "ping" when you walk into any of the 260,000 businesses that are currently programmed into the Skiddy application. And, he says he has a team that is constantly looking for new establishments that offer discounts to the over-50 set.

EL PASO COUNTY — Four new historical markers will soon be added to the nearly 90 existing ones in El Paso County.

The Texas Historical Commission (THC) recently gave the go-ahead to designate four El Paso County historical cemeteries- Bailey, Smelter, La Isla, and San Elizario- as historically significant places and deserving of an official state marker. A specific timeline for their installation has not yet been set, officials said.

The four local cemeteries, approved for historical markers, have deep connections to history in the Borderland.

The Bailey Cemetery, located in the county's upper valley community of Canutillo, has graves dating back to 1880. The town of Canutillo began as a rest stop named La Salineta. When the Santa Fe Railroad reached the area in 1881, a sign was placed at a railroad station called "Canutillo." Soon, the railroad established a telegraph office, cargo station, and loading zone for cattle and crops at that stop.

Shortly afterwards, Jesuit missionaries had the first chapel constructed in Canutillo, under the patronage of La Purísima Concepción. It served the Catholic community until 1938 when the parish of St. Patrick was created. The Canutillo cemetery dates to the early 1900s. It occupies land that was donated by Dr. James Bailey, one of the town's pioneers.

LA ISLA

When Mexico became independent in 1821, a chain of six towns in the El Paso County area were situated from three to five miles apart and stretched along the southern bank of the Rio Grande. In the early 1830s the meandering river formed a new channel south of the old one, thus placing three of the towns - Ysleta, Socorro, and San Elizario - on an island some twenty miles in length and two to four miles in width. For the remainder of the Mexican period, this area was called La Isla, "the Island." The Rio Grande continued to flow primarily through its new channel, and by 1848, when the river became the boundary between the United States and Mexico, water had ceased to flow in the old riverbed.

where the Asarco smokestacks once stood, dates back to 1882. Individuals, mostly residents of Smelertown, have been buried there since the 1800's. Smelertown is the neighborhood where

Grants to pave way for hiking, biking trails in San Elizario

SAN ELIZARIO — Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, via the National Recreational Trails Fund (NRTF), awarded the City of San Elizario $184,395 toward the San Elizario Historic Circuit Trail (Phase 1) project. And PeopleForBikes awarded $2,000 in funding for the Historic District Bike Rack Stations project.

The San Elizario Circuit Trail Phase 1 is a .66-mile hike and bike trail, situated primarily along the bank of the San Eli Main irrigation canal and connects the heart of the historic district and Tedd F.

Richardson Park — which is currently undergoing renovations with TPWD Local Parks funding. The genesis of the project was in 2015, when the City of San Elizario received approval from the El Paso County Water Improvement District #1 (EPCWID#1) Board of Directors to research options for a safe canal trail.

"For generations, residents have utilized the banks of canals for pedestrian use — and they will continue to do so. But thanks to this project, the safety of this route will be improved." Stated project administrator, Alderman David Cantu

San Elizario is committed to working with EPCWID#1 to follow all processes and to ensure we don't interfere with the primary function of the irrigation canal. The end goal is to complete Phase 2, which will create a 1.2-mile circuit trail.

And to culminate National Bike Month, PeopleForBikes stated, "We believe this project has great potential to improve the environment for bicycling in your community and we are pleased to be able to support it." Beginning in June for two weeks, a crowdfunding campaign will be launched to raise up to a total award of $10,000 to be divided between the City of San Elizario and two other recipients. # Prepare for major life expenses with tax-advantaged accounts

College tuition, a new pair of glasses and retirement may seem unrelated, but the tax law says otherwise. By knowing how and where to save your money, you could pay for each of these expenses with tax-advantaged – or in some cases income-tax-free – money.

Individual Retirement Agreements (IRAs) and 401(k)s are perhaps the two most well-known examples of these types of accounts. But they're not alone.

Veterans Post By Freddy Groves

Physician ambassadors

The Department of Veterans Affairs has a new program: the Physician Ambassador Program, which pairs volunteer medical personnel with VA medical centers and clinics. Since they will be volunteers, they'll be working for free.

These won't be the nice ladies who bring around a cart of magazines. These will be licensed and trained physicians and clinicians for mental health, cardiac care, emergency medicine, primary care, urgent care, rural care and more. They'll work alongside the health teams in any of the 1,700 VA facilities.

And did I mention that they'll work for free?

I have questions:

- Who is going to check their credentials?

- In the event of a dispute, who does the veteran patient turn to if the medical person in question isn't part of the VA?

- Who has the authority to hire/fire a volunteer? Each volunteer will have the credentials, but we know that doesn't actually mean anything when it comes to the level of care given. Since they'll be volunteers, will they answer to the Voluntary Services Office, the same department that provides the magazine cart lady?

- How is this new program different from the one already in place? For example, a partial list of ambassadors needed at a few of the VA medical centers includes taking lab and blood samples, working in the nursing unit, assisting in the dialysis unit, helping in the ER, assisting with patient care and pharmacy support.

- If the plan is to use volunteers in lieu of hired (paid) staff, how will it impact the level of care if volunteers don't show up?

The bill for the Physician Ambassadors Helping Veterans Act was first promoted by a Texas congressman in 2014. It was introduced in the Senate and the House in early 2015. Where has it been since then?

With educational and medical expenses in mind, consider the following types of accounts and how you might be able to use one to help yourself or your family.

Invest your college fund in a 529 plan. State-sponsored 529 plans come in two forms. Prepaid tuition plans let you lock in today's rate for in-state public schools and 529 college savings plans allow you to invest your savings based on your goals and risk tolerance.

Contributions aren't a federal tax write-off, but if you invest in your state's plan, there might be a state income tax write-off.

As new parents ourselves, my wife and I made the decision to start preparing for our son's education with a 529 college savings plan. However, the state where we live doesn't offer a tax incentive. After diligently researching our options, we chose to establish the account in another state.

Many states let non-residents invest in their 529 plans and you can compare the state-based benefits, investment options, fees and contribution rules when choosing your plan. The College Savings Plans Network (CSPN) has tools to compare 529 plans by features or by state.

If the money is spent on qualified educational expenses, such as tuition, fees or school supplies, you don't pay federal income tax (and may not have to pay state income tax) on investment gains.

Provide financial support for a disabled person using an ABLE account. News of a life-changing disability could come at any time. Following the Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act in 2014, states can now sponsor ABLE savings accounts.

Like 529 plans, contributions may be tax-deductible on the state (but not federal) level and the investment earnings can be withdrawn tax-free to pay for qualified expenses related to a mental or physical disability.

Beneficiaries must meet two criteria to qualify for an ABLE account: the disability must have begun before they were 26 and it must have "marked and severe functional limitations." Anyone can contribute to the beneficiary's ABLE account, and there is a limit on the total annual contributions — $14,000 as of 2017.

For individuals dealing with a disability and those taking care of a loved one, an ABLE account could make it easier to manage and plan finances. Generally, if you have a disability you're disqualified from some types of federal government aid if you have over $2,000 in assets. The first $100,000 in an ABLE account doesn't count against the limit for non-Medicaid services, and the entire account balance doesn't count against the Medicaid limit.

Collectively known as ABLE 2.0, several new bills may increase the annual contribution for those who have a disability and are working, increase the eligibility age to 46 and allow families to rollover money from a 529 college savings plan to an ABLE account.

Make medical expenses more affordable with an FSA. Some employers offer a Flexible Spending Account (FSA) as a benefit to their employees. Employees can fund the accounts by putting aside a portion of their paychecks. You can then spend the money on qualified medical expenses, including eye exams, glasses and dental procedures, without paying income tax.

FSA accounts have a use-it-or-lose it provision and the money you don't use could be forfeited at the end of the year. Employers could, but aren't required to, allow employees to roll over up to $500 each year or give them an additional two-and-a-half-month grace period to use the money.

Bottom line: Paying for higher education, covering medical-related expenses and saving for retirement are three important financial goals. Incorporating tax-advantaged accounts into your long-term plan could be a win-win for your wallet. You might be able to save money now by lowering your tax bill and lower your effective costs later by withdrawing and using the money for qualified expenses.

Socorro ISD receives music award

By Christy Flores-Jones
Special to the Courier

EL PASO COUNTY — The Socorro Independent School District (SISD) was designated as a 2017 Best Communities for Music Education Award recipient for its exceptionally high commitment and access to music education by the National Association of Music Merchants (NAMM).

SISD is one of 527 recipients in the nation to be recognized for its outstanding achievement in efforts to provide music access and education to all students, a prestigious honor only four percent of school districts receive, according to NAMM.

"Our department is extremely honored to have been selected as a national recipient of the 2017 Best Communities for Music Education Award," said Don Rominsky, director of fine arts. "This award validates the quality music education classes we offer at all SISD campuses and gives students endless opportunities to be prepared for the future."

Music education is an integral part of SISD curriculum offering more than 30,650 students unique learning experiences that develop creative and expressive potential through inspiring instruction.

"SISD fine arts is committed to providing students with a balanced, comprehensive, sequential, and rigorous program of instruction in the fine arts disciplines," Rominsky said.

Research shows children in music programs experience educational, cognitive and social skill benefits that lead to life-long academic success, higher high school graduation rates and college attendance, according to scientists and researchers at Northwestern University in a press release by NAMM.

Starting at the elementary level students are exposed to music education for a minimum of 30 minutes every other week to enhance their education and foster their academic, social and emotional growth. In addition, students at the middle and high school level have the opportunity to join award-winning band, choir, orchestra, mariachi and guitar, piano and fiddle programs that compete at the district, region, area or state level.

To qualify for the award, the SISD fine arts department completed a detailed survey and answered questions about funding, graduation requirements, music class participation, instruction time, facilities, support for the music program and other factors that affect access to music education for students.

many Asarco employees lived, raised families and died. When the smelter was shut down in the 1990s, most of those families had already moved away.

The Smelter Cemetery rests behind a hill just west of I-10 and just south of Executive Center. It's striking to see this old cemetery – dilapidated wooden, metal, and concrete crosses dotting the desert hills – that lies just west of a modern business park.

The cemetery's death records, overseen by the nearby Catholic church of San Jose de Cristo Rey, begin October of 1893 and go through 1956. Many of its parishioners were laid to rest at the Smelter Cemetery, also known as "La Calavera" (the Skull).

La Isla Cemetery, which has headstones that date back to the early 1900s, is one of the oldest cemeteries in the border. It is situated southwest of the county's lower valley town of Fabens, which has about 8,000 residents. The cemetery is managed by Faben's Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church and has about 250 plots.

The San Elizario Cemetery, the oldest of the four, dates back to the 1770s. The old cemetery served the community for over 100 years. Many of the people who struggled to build the town of San Elizario found their final resting place in this camposanto (blessed field). Because early grave markers were made of wood, all above-ground evidence of this cemetery's existence has gradually eroded.

buried in these grounds was Catholic Church during early times served as The Mother Elizario. The commemorative Church for this and surrounding signage states: "San Elizario communities. This land served as a cemetery from the early 1770s to 1896. Early settlers, Indians, U.S. military personnel, clergy, and members of religious orders were buried here. The last known person buried here was Juanita Escajeda Carreon in 1896."

The THC designations regarding cemeteries are for those burial grounds that are at least 50 years old and deemed worthy of recognition for its historical associations, according to the state agency's website.

Currently there are more than 16,000 Texas Historical Commission markers around the state. Texas, with 254 counties, has the most prolific state historical marker program in the United States.

THC is the official agency that is dedicated to historic preservation within the state of Texas. It administers the National Register of Historic Places for sites in the state.

The commission also identifies Recorded Texas Historic Landmarks and recognizes them with Official Texas Historical Marker medallions and descriptive plaques. The commission identifies State Archeological Landmarks and Historic Texas Cemeteries.

A quarterly publication, The Medallion, is published by the agency and includes news and advice about preservation projects, Texas' historic sites, and heritage tourism opportunities.

The agency also maintains the

The History Channel

- On July 3, 1969, Rolling Stones guitarist Brian Jones is found dead in the swimming pool at his home in England. Two years later to the day, in 1971, Jim Morrison dies of heart failure in a Paris bathtub. Both were 27 years old.

- On July 4, 1957, Italian automaker Fiat debuts the "Nuova Cinquecento," a redesigned version of a model it debuted in 1936. Fiat's first 500-cc car, the "Il Topolino," had space for two people and a top speed of 53 mph.

- On July 5, 1946, French designer Louis Reard unveils a daring two-piece swimsuit at a popular swimming pool in Paris. Reard dubbed the swimsuit the "bikini," inspired by a news-making U.S. atomic test off Bikini Atoll.

- On July 6, 1971, Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, one of the most influential musicians of the 20th century, dies in New York City at age 69. A world-renowned jazz trumpeter and vocalist, he pioneered jazz improvisation and the style known as swing.

- On July 7, 1981, President Ronald Reagan nominates Sandra Day O'Connor, an Arizona court of appeals judge, to be the first woman Supreme Court justice. After the Senate unanimously approved her appointment, she was sworn in by Chief Justice Warren Burger on Sept. 25.

- On July 8, 1776, in Philadelphia, the Liberty Bell rings out, summoning citizens to the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence. Although the historic document was adopted on July 4, the bell was not rung until it returned from the printer.

- On July 9, 1993, British forensic scientists announce they have positively identified the remains of Russia's last czar, Nicholas II; his wife, Czarina Alexandra; and three of their daughters. The scientists used mitochondrial DNA fingerprinting to identify the bones, which had been excavated from a mass grave two years earlier.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was 19th-century journalist and women's rights advocate Margaret Fuller who made the following sage observation: "A house is no home unless it contains food and fire for the mind as well as the body."

- There is a patron saint for everything, it seems. You've probably never heard of Saint Drogo of Sebourg, but this 12th-century Flemish noble became the patron saint of those whom others find unattractive. After he turned 18, he got rid of all his wealth, became a shepherd and made several pilgrimages to Rome. On one of these pilgrimages, he was "stricken with an unsightly bodily affliction" and became hideously deformed. In order to spare others the sight of his deformity, he was confined to a small cell attached to his village church. Until the end of his life, 40 years later, he remained there, subsisting only on barley, water and the bread and wine of communion.

- The longest beard ever recorded belonged to a man named Hans N. Langseth. Upon his death in 1927, it was 17.5 feet long. In 1967, the beard was donated to the Smithsonian Institution.

- Those who study such things say that your ears secrete more wax when you're afraid.

- A recent survey by Baskin-Robbins revealed some interesting trends in parenting. It seems that when trying to get kids to do an unpleasant task, dads are 75 percent more likely to use ice cream as a bribe. Also, dads are twice as likely as moms to use ice cream to resolve an argument, and 90 percent of dads give ice cream to kids who need some cheering up.

Social Security Q&A By Ray Vigil

Program returns people to work

Social Security encourages people to rejoin the workforce when they are able. Ticket to Work is our free and voluntary program that helps people get vocational rehabilitation, training, job referrals, and other employment support services.

This program is for people ages 18 to 64, who are receiving disability benefits, and need support re-entering the workforce or working for the first time.

While many disabled individuals are unable to work and may never be able to return to work, we know that some are eager to try working again. Work incentives make it easier to work and still receive health care and cash benefits from Social Security while providing protections if people have to stop working due to a disability.

Social Security works with employment networks to offer beneficiaries access to meaningful employment. Employment networks are organizations and agencies,

Mayweather goes from The Money Team to cash bandit

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

Fool me once – shame on you. Fool me twice – shame on all the suckers who will dish out millions to watch the Floyd Mayweather-Conor McGregor super-fiasco in August.

Sometimes the gullibility of the modern sports fan makes me chuckle.

Mayweather, one of the best boxers in history, decided to come out of retirement when he actually heard that he could make about $200 million by fighting a non-boxer in a couple months.

And of course by non-boxer, I mean that McGregor, an MMA star, will not be allowed to use any of his MA skills.

This is like asking Tom Brady to play quarterback but not allowing him to throw the ball.

From the days of P.T. Barnum, to Harry Houdini, to David Blaine, tricksters and charlatans and conmen have perfected the art of deceiving the general public.

At least Barnum and Houdini and Blaine attempt to make their victims believe the illusion is real.

The crooks involved in this fight have made no illusions at all about this being about making money and nothing else.

Usually, when someone spends a good deal of money it's because they expect something of equal value in return. It's rare when a person gives $100 to the ticket taker and says, "I'd like about $5 worth of entertainment please."

But that's exactly what will happen here. Even some of the experts and their listeners on talk radio are saying that they give McGregor a zero-percent chance of making it past the third round, but they're going to buy the fight anyway because of the curiosity factor.

Remember the Mayweather-Pacquiao fight? When two champions fought about five years after their prime. People dished out $100 to watch the fight and there was an uproar afterward about how they had wasted their money.

Amazingly, fans expected the two fighters to magically return to their youth and stage one of the greatest fights of all time. All the fighters produced was a snooze-fest with Pacquiao too slow to connect on a punch and Mayweather auditioning for Dancing with the Stars.

Well, to his credit, Mayweather is about to do it again.

The same guy is about to dupe millions into spending their money on another farce.

But don't blame Mayweather. If people are dumb enough to support this fight financially even knowing that this is a total mismatch, then kudos to him.

Mayweather, who has spent his career making as much noise with arrests out of the ring and he has winning bouts in it, has never lost a fight.

He is 49-0, but doesn't 50-0 sound better? It's a nice round number that's easy to remember.

It's just too bad that he has to win #50 this way, against a guy who will be forced to fight while being severely restricted.

McGregor, who wins his bouts with fists and kicks and elbows and choking and submissions holds, will not be able to kick and elbow and choke nor use any submissions holds.

Mayweather uses his fists and will be allowed to use his fists.

Sounds a little weird to me. How can two opponents face each other but one is forced to change its rules.

That's totally crazy. It's like forcing a MLB team's pitcher to bat while the other team's pitcher doesn't bat. Okay, bad example, but I think you get my drift.

I heard one commentator make a great suggestion. He said let these two go with boxing rules for the first nine rounds. If McGregor can stick around, the last three rounds would go with MMA rules.

Of course now you're talking about an exhibition. But this isn't what we're getting in August.

This is the equivalent of the boxer taking on the wrestler, or the wrestler taking on the boxing kangaroo.

It's a novelty. It's a curiosity. It's a freak show. What it isn't is worth the money they'll be charging.

But as P.T. Barnum is famous for saying, "there's a sucker born every minute."

And around midnight on August 26 when the match is over and zombie fans are roaming the streets wondering who to blame for them blowing their money on such a disaster – just point them toward the nearest mirror.

Sorry, cousin Mike, Jordan's not greatest

So my cousin Mike comes up to me at a funeral and says to me, "Yo, cousin Mark... am I right about this? Tell me Jordan wasn't the greatest of all-time? That the NBA is boring now."

Now, he asked in a New Jersey dialect, you must understand. He wasn't asking me to tell him Michael Jordan wasn't the greatest. He was seeking vindication for an argument and telling me in a passive-aggressive way to confirm the fact that Jordan was the greatest. I chose to go the opposite route. "Jordan wasn't the greatest of all-time." I took him at his word.

That player, to me, will always be Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. But it wasn't easy being Kareem; even he was swept out of the finals twice. The Jordan argument is always a valid one, and he is always on my first team, NBA Mount Rushmore.

But this year's Golden State Warriors team made me rethink the NBA. The '80s and '90s era was a glorious time for the NBA. Every single team had a poster-ready superstar, and the NBC games of the week – punctuated by Marv Albert's "Yes!" – were must-see TV. But the game was played differently. Basically, Jordan got the ball, wagged his tongue, broke somebody's ankles, jumped in the air, flew about 20 feet and simply put the ball in the basket because he was right there. Then came the Kobe and hack-a-Shaq era, and people started to tune out. The NCAA became king.

Well, this season has had people talking about the Golden State Warriors. They're a superteam of superstars, and they play in a way that boggles the mind. I just don't understand why people are complaining. These guys don't do the Jordan thing... they just sink the ball from anywhere on the court. It's truly amazing to see.

Steph Curry isn't the greatest of all time... but he's one of the greatest shooters of all time.

Yeah, he pinned a clown suit on LeBron James and acted like a real villain lying on the side of the court, but there was no denying that he was fantastic, as was Kevin Durant. They went 16-1 in the playoffs – sparing LeBron the shame of sharing Kareem's sweep record – and established themselves as being one of the greatest teams to ever take the court.

Oakland drops the ball with this team. I get that you have to call them Golden State to appease the San Francisco market, but to me you have a city desperate to improve its reputation, and probably half the kids in America watching haven't a clue where Golden State is. Even the Kings admit to being from Sacramento. Then again, they might want to tamp down on the riots before making a name change.

Can people in America stop rioting over sports? In other countries, people riot over things like not getting enough food off the back of a U.N. truck. Here, some guy sinks 39 points, holds up a trophy and people go berserk all night. Why does a championship mean you have to destroy cars and light couches on fire? Enough with the couch fires, America.

So sorry, Mike... Jordan may not be the best ever, but the lack of parity in the NBA shouldn't overwhelm the fact that there's great basketball being played. So enjoy. Just don't riot.

TOWN OF CLINT, TX

Final Notice and Public Explanation of a Proposed Activity in a Wetland in a Wetland

To All interested Agencies, Groups and Individuals on 6/22/2017: This is to give notice that the Town of Clint has conducted an evaluation as required by Executive Order 11990, in accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C Procedures Protection. The activity is funded under the Community Development Block Grant Program under contract 7216100. The Town of Clint proposes a First-time Gas Service project to provide first-time gas access to households in Clint by installing 1,700 LF of 2" poly gas line, gas meters, yard service lines, fittings, pavement repair, and all related connections and appurtenances on Pioneer St from Williams St west to the dead end, and on Williams St from Pioneer St to Lawson Ave. The project shall include activities within approximately 0.002 acres of the wetland. The Town of Clint has considered the following alternatives and mitigation measures to be taken to minimize adverse impacts and to restore and preserve natural and beneficial values: a reduction in scope, alternate locations, and no action. The scope and location of project activities were chosen based on minimum improvements necessary to correct the health and safety risks existing facilities pose to the natural and human environment. Because the project scope includes only system components most in need of installation, the alternatives considered would preclude the steps 3 through 6 of Executive Order 11990 are available for public inspection, review, and copying upon request during regular business hours at the City Hall for receipt of comments. There are three primary purposes for this notice: (1) People who may be affected by activities in wetlands and those who have an interest in the protection of the natural environment should be given an opportunity to express their concerns and provide information about these areas;

(2) An adequate public notice program can be an important public educational tool. The dissemination of information during regular business hours. A full description of the project may also be reviewed during regular business hours at 200 N. San Elizario Rd, Clint, TX 79836-0350. Comments may also be submitted via email to Lauren@grantsworks.net.

Your good health By Keith Roach, M.D.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I had mitral valve prolapse for many years. In 2005, I got an infection, and it ended up as endocarditis. My mitral valve was not able to be repaired. I got a porcine valve. I am starting to have a little problem with my heart. Have you heard of a doctor doing a second replacement? My cardiologist says it is a really big deal. —J.L.F.

Endocarditis is an exceedingly serious infection of the heart valves. It is much more likely in people who have damaged heart valves, such as from rheumatic fever, but it also can happen in people with normal heart valves. Endocarditis is treated with antibiotics, almost always intravenously to begin with, but complications such as an abscess or heart failure may require surgery, either repair or a valve replacement.

I have seen many cases of replacement of a damaged prosthetic valve. As your cardiologist suggests, the risk of the operation is high. However, if the valve is very damaged, you don't really have any other options. It is clear that the decision to replace a prosthetic valve is difficult and should be undertaken only if other treatments have failed. An experienced cardiac surgeon, hospital and entire team is critical.

You didn't say what the new problem with your heart is. A recurrence of infection is fairly common, since artificial valves, both bioprosthetic (like your porcine valve) and mechanical, are at higher risk of becoming infected. Consultation with an infectious disease expert certainly would be appropriate, if that were the case.

Readers wishing for more information on heart valve disorders can order the booklet on that subject by writing: Dr. Roach — No. 105W, 628 Virginia Drive, Orlando, FL 32803. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

DEAR DR. ROACH: At age 45, I was diagnosed with bipolar II disorder. I am now 60 and have diligently taken medication, and I have never experienced the manic/depression swings associated with bipolar disease. I rarely hear anything about bipolar II. Can you tell me something about it? —D.T.

Bipolar disorder is a complex spectrum of diseases that have in common drastic changes in mood and behavior. Depression is the most common initial mood disorder in bipolar disorder. Bipolar I disorder is diagnosed when there are manic episodes. A manic episode is defined medically as an abnormal, persistently elevated mood with increased activity or energy, lasting at least a week. Feelings of increased self-esteem, decreased need for sleep, being unusually talkative, having racing ideas and distractibility are common. Spending sprees, sexual indiscretions and foolish investments sometimes happen during these episodes.

In bipolar II, true manic episodes are not present. Depression always is, as is at least one episode of hypomania, which is similar to manic episodes but less severe or long-

• "Here's a tip that impressed me so much I love sharing it with everyone! A friend of mine went away for a month, and forgot about a package of ground meat in the refrigerator. When he got home the smell was hideous. We tried pure bleach first, then boxes and boxes of baking soda. The smell was imbedded! Then a buddy of mine told me to use newspaper. Take eight of more sheets and lay a few on each shelf. To my surprise the next day the odor was gone! Imagine that!"
