

The Texas Commission on the Arts seeks artists' nominations

By Alfredo Vasquez
Special to the Courier

TEXAS – Texas Commission on the Arts (TCA) announced recently that nominations are now being accepted for the positions of 2021 and 2022 State Poet Laureate, State Musician, State Artist two-dimensional media (i.e., painting, photography), and State Artist three-dimensional media (i.e., sculpture). The nomination call is on behalf of the Texas State Legislature.

Qualified nominees must be native Texans or five-year residents of the state. Candidates must have received recognition for high levels of excellence and success in their respective disciplines. They also must have received critical reviews in state, regional, or national publications.

Chosen artists will join the company of previous state artists – such as Willie Nelson, Beili Liu, and Kathy Vargas – and will receive statewide recognition.

Texas State Legislature's 2019 and 2020 appointments to the positions of state poet laureate, state musician, state two-dimensional artist and state three-dimensional artist were: 2019 State Musician was Little Joe Hernandez, who helped pioneer Tejano music, a mix of traditional norteño music and country, blues, and rock styles. 2020 State Musician was Emily Gimble, who has been singing and playing on-stage since she was seven years old and comes from a long line of family guitar pickers.

2019 State Poet Laureate was Carrie Fountain, whose poems have appeared in Tin House, Poetry, and The New Yorker, among others. 2020 State Poet Laureate was Emmy Perez, who is the author of the poetry collections, With the River on Our Face and Solstice. She is a member of the Macondo Writers Workshop and is a former recipient of poetry fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, Canto Mundo, and the New York Foundation for the Arts.

2019 State Visual Artist (two-dimensional) was Mary McCleary, who makes collages of great complexity that combine painterly craftsmanship and striking iconography. Her subject matter comes from religion, science, history, and literature. 2020 State Visual Artist (2-D) was Earl Hudnall, Jr., who as a photographer explored and documented the daily lives of African American families, individuals, elders, and children in Houston's Third, Fourth, and Fifth Wards, which had a lasting impact on him as an artist.

2019 State Visual Artist (three-dimensional) was Rick Lowe, who lives in Houston and has exhibited and worked with communities nationally and internationally. 2020 State Visual Artist (3-D) was Gabriel Dawe, whose work is centered in the exploration of textiles and is aimed at examining the complicated construction of gender and identity in his native Mexico and attempting to subvert the notions of masculinity and machismo prevalent in the present day.

During their year-long tenure, Texas State Artists participate in TCA events and promotions, including participation on TCA's Texas Touring Roster and other state initiatives in relation to their respective arts discipline.

Although the state artists recognition program has been going on for many decades, El Paso County's only state recognized artists have been – in 1968, when Sybil Leonard Armes was named alternate poet laureate behind Kathryn Henry Harris, of Waco; and in 1995 when Frederick Carter was selected state visual artist winner, according to data on TCA's website.

"We are fortunate to have many outstanding artists in Texas, and we anticipate receiving numerous qualified nominations," said Gary Gibbs, executive director of TCA. "Being named a Texas State Artist is the Texas Legislature's highest honor for an artist, and it brings new career opportunities and recognition from the arts community and the general public."

TCA oversees the selection process for the four positions, in accordance with Chapter 3104 of the Texas Government Code. TCA issues the call for nominations, oversees an evaluation review process, and provides a list of finalists to the selection committee.

The committee, composed of members appointed by the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, makes the final selections. The 87th Texas Legislature will make the appointments next spring when they are in session.

El Paso region has met parameters set by Department of Public Health to begin safely bringing students back to school

By Christy Flores-Jones
Special to the Courier

EL PASO COUNTY – Following guidance from the El Paso Department of Public Health to help limit the spread of COVID-19 in the community, the Socorro Independent School District began instruction for its more than 47,000 students via remote learning on August 17, 2020. When the health order expires on September 7, 2020, the district plans to implement a phased approach to transitioning students, and staff, safely and cautiously back to school beginning on September 8, 2020 and continue phasing in students for on-campus instruction through September 28, 2020.

Remote (at-home) learning will continue to be an option throughout the 2020-2021 school year for all families who have chosen remote instruction for their child.

"Keeping Team SISD Safe has been at the forefront of our planning and decision process since day one of our response to the global COVID-19 pandemic. I believe we have done a great job mitigating risks while following guidance and directives by local, state and national authorities," said Superintendent Jose Espinoza, Ed.D. "Bringing in students at this time is both in line with state mandates and the right thing to do for our families in need."

TEA waiver to extend transition period beyond four weeks

District administration proactively requested and received approval of a Texas Education Agency waiver allowing for the extension of the at-home learning transition period. As mandated by TEA, the waiver requested an "indication as to the local health conditions that would warrant a faster end to the transition period, so that all students have access to on-campus instruction."

The district followed the guidance of City and County Health Authority Dr. Hector I. Ocaranza to indicate which parameters would warrant a safe return to school for students and staff.

According to Dr. Ocaranza, the region has currently met the local public health conditions set forth by his department for the safe reopening of schools.

"The parameters previously stated have shown a continuous downward trend in the pandemic indicating that the spread of COVID-19 in our community has slowed down to a level that can be considered as an indicator for return of in-person instruction on campus, in a safe and cautious manner, on or after September 8, 2020," Dr. Ocaranza said in a memo to school district leaders.

Phased reopening plan

To be in compliance with the TEA waiver requirements as well as the guidance by the local Department of Public Health, Socorro ISD has updated its reopening plans to include a phased-in approach that reflects Dr. Ocaranza's recommendation "for return of in-person instruction on campus, in a safe and cautious manner."

"We are working to accommodate our parents and employees to the best of our ability as we strive to provide our students with a quality education in a safe and supportive learning environment," Espinoza said. "Unfortunately, there are no simple, unilateral solutions that best serve all stakeholders."

Students unable to connect remotely

The first group of students to return to campus are those who have been served through solely an asynchronous learning model due to lack of internet access. As mandated by TEA, these students shall be provided the opportunity to receive instruction on campus during the district's transition period.

School personnel have identified students who are not able to connect remotely and have worked diligently to accommodate them with offline learning opportunities through September 4, 2020. Beginning September 8, 2020, they will be given the opportunity to participate in online remote learning on their campus where a device

“The Art of the Deal” in his own name. True, it was ghostwritten, but let’s not quibble. Among the books that Barnum authored was “The Art of Money Getting.” Coincidence? I don’t think so.

Barnum was a blatant hoaxster with his various phony freak shows. Trump is a major-league huckster, and his administration has been described more than once as a freak show.

P.T. is best remembered for his circus. See? Another dead ringer. Actually, we could say “dead three-ringer.” While the Democrats put on a memorable show with their virtual convention, you know that D.J. Trump is producing the “Greatest Show on Earth.” He always does with his high-wire acts. Why? As P.T. said, “The bigger the humbug, the better people will like it.”

That has been Donald Trump’s motto from day one. He convinced folks that he was a master businessman even though his properties went bankrupt six times. He has always had a reputation among contractors for agreeing to a price, getting the work done and welching on full payment, hiding behind a wall of lawyers. Through it all he declared his business failures to be roaring successes, and so they were as far as the public was concerned.

He has taken that con job to public life.

Among the various Barnum quotes that Trump has clearly embraced is his personal favorite, possibly without knowing who said it: “The success of quacks and quackeries are infinitely more wonderful than those of honest and laborious men of science and their careful experiments.”

Donald Trump has always ignored experts, dismissing them as tools of some sort of “deep state.” That is nowhere more evident than in his reactions to the COVID pandemic, where he has gone against the public health specialists nearly every step of the way. He has gone from first dismissing the coronavirus as not a big deal, to embracing various phony “miracle” cures like hydroxychloroquine, to declaring the crisis over long before it was, to my personal favorite, igniting a rebellion against face masks. Now what is his campaign selling Defund: Who you gonna call?

The next time you or a loved one is in trouble just call the media. Call ABC, CBS, NBC or any of the boundless cable news networks. They will not save you, but they will shape you with a story.

Don’t call the police. They are the killers. Just watch the “news”.

Rayshard Brooks’ death, though regrettable, was his choice. He fell asleep, drunk, in the drive through of a Wendy’s restaurant. After 45-minutes and a calm chat with police he chose to wrestle with police and grab a weapon as they tried to cuff him. He ran and he discharged the stolen taser at the officers. He was killed as a result of his actions.

Brooks had a history of violent criminal behavior including theft, cruelty to children, battery on a family member and false imprisonment. Even a cursory internet search shows a criminal record extending from 2013 to 2018. Where was that information in the mainstream news?

So how should Brooks’ story end – as the editorial cartoon at right suggests? If the police let him walk home how does the morning headline read: Police let intoxicated driver walk home or maybe worse. Can you hear the outcry if he gets run over in traffic while staggering home. Maybe he gets into another car and kills somebody while driving still under the influence. Maybe he mixes it up with his family and hurts – or worse – one of them.

The police didn’t go looking for Brooks. They were called to a problem. It just happened to be Brooks. And he was violent with the police when he didn’t get his way.

Who was Jacob Blake before he was made infamous for ignoring repeated commands to yield by police officers? Why didn’t he obey? Was he under the influence of something or reaching for a weapon? A knife was found. Maybe it was the open warrants he had with a record of sexual assault, trespassing and disorderly conduct that drove his behavior. He was a fleeing criminal that put not only his life at risk, but those of his children and the officers as well. At least he will live to face the consequences of his actions.

May God bless his mama for speaking out for peace from the public. And may God ease the pain of his children for witnessing what their father instigated.

There are plenty of white people in trouble every day. There are Mexicans and other nationalities in trouble too. Where are those stories? Maybe they aren’t as important or don’t they fit the political ambitions of the big three and other powerful media outlets. The fact is that most people in this country only have very limited contact with law enforcement officials. And when they do, they need immediate help. Help resulting from theft, cruelty to children, battery on a family member or false imprisonment. Help resulting from sexual assault, trespassing or disorderly conduct. Who you gonna call?

So why is it people feel justified in burning and looting in protest? Why do more people die from the protesters that kill them than the police? What purpose

Today, I am warning the public about fraudulent letters threatening suspension of Social Security benefits due to COVID-19 or coronavirus-related office closures. Social Security will not suspend or discontinue benefits because their offices are closed.

The Social Security Office of the Inspector General has received reports that Social Security beneficiaries have received letters through the U.S. Mail stating their payments will be suspended or discontinued unless they call a phone number referenced in the letter. Scammers may then mislead beneficiaries into providing personal information or payment via retail gift cards, wire transfers, internet currency, or by mailing cash, to maintain regular benefit payments during this period of COVID-19 office closures.

As of Tuesday, March 17, 2020, local Social Security offices are closed to the public due to COVID-19 concerns. However, Social Security employees continue to work. Social Security will not suspend or decrease Social Security benefit payments or Supplemental Security Income payments due to the current COVID-19 pandemic. Any communication you receive that says Social Security will do so is a scam, whether you receive it by letter, text, email, or phone call.

Social Security will never:
Threaten you with benefit suspension, arrest, or other legal action unless you pay a fine or fee.

Promise a benefit increase or other assistance in exchange for payment.

Require payment by retail gift card, cash, wire transfer, internet currency, or prepaid debit card.

Demand secrecy from you in handling a Social Security-related problem.

Send official letters or reports containing personally identifiable information via email.

If you receive a letter, text, call or email that you believe to be suspicious, about an alleged problem with your Social Security number, account, or payments, hang up or do not respond. We encourage you to report Social Security scams using our dedicated online form. Please share this information with your friends and family, to help spread awareness about Social Security scams.

The QAnon rot in the GOP

QAnon is getting its first congresswoman.

Marjorie Taylor Greene won a runoff in a Republican primary, all but assuring her victory in November in a heavily GOP district.

She is thus set to become the highest officeholder in the land who takes seriously the lunatic theories of QAnon, the anonymous internet poster who says, among other ludicrous and poisonous things, that there's a global network of pedophiles about to be exposed and undone by President Donald Trump.

Greene's ascension is the latest indication of the creeping influence of Q, who has fashioned a kind of free-floating John Birch Society for the digital age. The author's adherents or fellow travelers are adept at spreading memes on social media, hold signs or wear paraphernalia touting Q at Trump rallies, and now are notching some victories in GOP primaries.

Jo Rae Perkins, a no-hoper who won the Republican Senate primary in Oregon, has associated herself with Q and expressed disappointment when her sellout campaign team tried to hide her enthusiasm for the conspiracy theory. Lauren Boebert, the upset winner of a primary for a Republican House seat in Colorado, said of Q in a radio interview, "If this is real, then it could be really great for our country."

The rise of Q shouldn't be exaggerated. Surely, most Republicans aren't even aware of this dreck, and the Q caucus in the next Congress might number one or two. Almost every political movement has a fringe that marinates in paranoia and is prepared to believe – or invent – the worst about the other side.

Yet, the spread of QAnon shows that the Trump-era GOP has weakened antibodies against kookery. Trump himself sets the tone. He's an indiscriminate tweeter of disreputable Twitter accounts, and he's floated all sorts of ridiculous conspiracy theories over the years – just ask Ted Cruz's father, or Joe Scarborough. Trump fulsomely praised Greene upon her primary victory as a Republican rising star.

In 2017, Greene posted a long, hilariously earnest and completely bonkers explication of Q posts to YouTube. She had read them closely and spent time trying to figure out their import. The time and energy you'd hope an eventual congressional candidate would devote to understanding the federal budget or, say, how to reform military procurement, she'd poured into Q, and was clearly invigorated and alarmed by it.

Q has a special draw for a segment of Trump supporters. The author's lurid inventions involve people who are already villains of the populist right, the likes of George Soros and John Podesta. Q promotes a radical distrust of traditional sources of information and makes Trump's stumbles into master chess moves, both of which are pleasing to Trump superfans.

All of this is an explanation, not an excuse. Q is deeply corrosive of the qualities necessary to live in and govern a republic. It invites its adherents to suspend reason – how else to credit all the prophecies that haven't come to pass? – and believe that a swath of the American establishment isn't just wrongheaded or incompetent, but engaged in monstrous secret crimes.

Marjorie Taylor Greene has already been criticized by Republican congressional leaders for her incendiary rantings about Muslims. She deserves, too, to be shunned for attraction to Q, even if the president of the United States is unbothered by it.

does it serve to burn down a Wendy's burger joint because a drunk criminal resisted arrest and unfortunately died for it? Or what about the businesses burned in Kenosha, WI because Blake ignored the lawful commands of police officers? And why do people in other cities feel like it is their duty to, as Chicago

Mayor Lori Lightfoot put it, commit outright felonious acts? They, protesters for justice, and Black Lives Matter – as well as bad actors – have killed more people than the police during their protests, in their efforts to gain national attention than the media is willing to report.

Did the protesters mean to have bodies drop? Maybe, maybe not, depending on their ultimate goal. But there are bodies on the ground. Who will come forward and take responsibility for those deaths?

Let's get real. Yes, there is injustice – racial and then some – in this country. And sometimes bad shootings and actions by law enforcement. However not all of it is race against race. In fact most violent crimes are committed within races – white on white, black on black and so forth.

In any case, Brooks and Blake are not the poster children for all this outrage. As for Black Lives Matter – look them up online and see who they really are and what they really stand for. Read their mission statement.

Are these men – Brooks and Blake and others like them of whatever race with violent criminal histories – really the pillars on which we should hang our moral outrage? Is the Black Lives Matter agenda this nation's agenda? I hope not.

We all should be outraged by the actions of men of this character regardless of race – as well as racists of any color, nationality, creed, organization or affiliation. We all matter – to ourselves, to our friends, to our families and to God above.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX RATE

A tax rate of $0.710781 per $100 valuation has been proposed by the governing body of TOWN OF ANTHONY, TX.

PROPOSED TAX RATE	$0.710781 per $100
NO-NEW-REVENUE TAX RATE	$0.710781 per $100
VOTER-APPROVAL TAX RATE	$0.571215 per $100
DE MINIMIS RATE	$0.814319 per $100

The no-new-revenue tax rate is the tax rate for the 2020 tax year that will raise the same amount of property tax revenue for TOWN OF ANTHONY from the same properties in both the 2019 tax year and the 2020 tax year.

The voter-approval tax rate is the highest tax rate that TOWN OF ANTHONY may adopt without holding an election to seek voter approval of the rate, unless the de minimis rate for TOWN OF ANTHONY exceeds the voter-approval tax rate for TOWN OF ANTHONY.

The de minimis rate is the rate equal to the sum of the no-new-revenue maintenance and operations rate for TOWN OF ANTHONY, the rate that will raise $500,000, and the current debt rate for TOWN OF ANTHONY.

The proposed tax rate is not greater than the no-new-revenue tax rate. This means that TOWN OF ANTHONY is not proposing to increase property taxes for the 2020 tax year.

A public hearing on the proposed tax rate will be held on September 14, 2020 at 6:30 PM at Town Hall, 401 Wildcat Drive, Anthony, Texas 79821 (open to the public at 6:30 pm); members of the public may also communicate with Council during the public hearing by calling the following number (915) 886-3944 during office hours of 8:00 am to 4:30 pm or emailing Norma Gonzalez at ngonzalez@townofanthony.org to participate virtually.

The proposed tax rate is greater than the voter-approval tax rate, but not greater than the de minimis rate. However, the proposed tax rate exceeds the rate that allows voters to petition for an election under Section 26.075, Tax Code. If TOWN OF ANTHONY adopts the proposed tax rate, the qualified voters of the TOWN OF ANTHONY may petition the TOWN OF ANTHONY to require an election to be held to determine whether to reduce the proposed tax rate. If a majority of the voters reject the proposed tax rate, the tax rate of the TOWN OF ANTHONY will be the voter-approval tax rate of the TOWN OF ANTHONY.

YOUR TAXES OWED UNDER ANY OF THE TAX RATES MENTIONED ABOVE CAN BE CALCULATED AS FOLLOWS:

$$\text{Property tax amount} = (\text{tax rate}) \times (\text{taxable value of your property}) / 100$$

The members of the governing body voted on the proposed tax increase as follows:

- FOR:
 Councilman Eluterio Alfaro
 Mayor Pro Tem Shawn Weeks
 Councilman Jose Garcia
- AGAINST:
 None
- PRESENT and not voting:
 Mayor Benjamin Romero
- ABSENT:
 Councilman Eduardo Chavez

The 86th Legislature modified the manner in which the voter-approval tax rate is calculated to limit the rate of growth of property taxes in the state.

The following table compares the taxes imposed on the average residence homestead by TOWN OF ANTHONY last year to the taxes proposed to be imposed on the average residence homestead by TOWN OF ANTHONY this year.

	2019	2020	Change
Total tax rate (per $100 of value)	$0.681647	$0.710781	Increase of $0.029134 or 4.27%.
Average homestead taxable value	$109,814	$110,111	Increase of 0.27%.
Tax on average homestead	$749	$783	Increase of $34 or 4.55%
Total tax levy on all properties	$1,374,821	$1,375,522	Increase of $701 or 0.05%.

For assistance with tax calculations, please contact the tax assessor for TOWN OF ANTHONY, TX at 915-212-0106 or citytaxoffice@elpasotexas.gov, or visit townofanthony.org for more information.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING TO DISCUSS BUDGET AND PROPOSED TAX RATE

The Canutillo Independent School District will hold a public meeting 3:00 p.m. on Tuesday, September 22, 2020. The public may watch the livestream of this meeting at <http://www.youtube.com/c/CanutilloISDPremier>. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the school district's budget that will determine the tax rate that will be adopted. Public participation in the discussion is invited.

The tax rate that is ultimately adopted at this meeting or at a separate meeting at a later date may not exceed the proposed tax rate shown below unless the district publishes a revised notice containing the same information and comparisons set out below and holds another public meeting to discuss the revised notice.

Maintenance Tax	$1.030100/$100 (Proposed rate for maintenance and operations)
School Debt Service Tax
Approved by Local Voters	$0.360000/$100 (Proposed rate to pay bonded indebtedness)

Comparison of Proposed Budget with Last Year's Budget

The applicable percentage increase or decrease (or difference) in the amount budgeted in the preceding fiscal year and the amount budgeted for the fiscal year that begins during the current tax year is indicated for each of the following expenditure categories:

Maintenance and Operations	5.24% Decrease
Debt Service	0.95% Decrease
Total Expenditures	4.76% Decrease

Total Appraised Value and Total Taxable Value (as calculated under Section 26.04, Tax Code)

	Preceding Tax Year	Current Tax Year
Total appraised value* of all property	$ 3,390,675,082	$ 3,614,326,184
Total appraised value* of new property	$ 160,587,374	$ 145,954,870
Total taxable value of all property	$ 2,474,331,480	$ 2,616,168,457
Total taxable value of new property	$ 151,960,492	$ 128,854,081

* "Appraised value" is the amount shown on the appraisal roll and defined by Section 1.04(8), Tax Code.

 "New property" is defined by Section 26.012(17), Tax Code.

 "Taxable value" is defined by Section 1.04(10), Tax Code.

Bonded Indebtedness

Total amount of outstanding and unpaid bonded indebtedness* $95,609,627

* Outstanding principal.

Comparison of Proposed Rates with Last Year's Rates

	Maintenance & Operations	Interest & Sinking Fund*	Total	Local Revenue Per Student	State Revenue Per Student
Last Year's Rate	$ 1.068350	$ 0.360000*	$ 1.428350	$ 5,973	$ 5,643
Rate to Maintain Same Level of Maintenance & Operations Revenue & Pay Debt Service	$ 1.162100	$ 0.266870*	$ 1.428970	$ 6,092	$ 5,137
Proposed Rate	$ 1.030100	$ 0.360000*	$ 1.390100	$ 6,255	$ 5,237

*The Interest & Sinking Fund tax revenue is used to pay for bonded indebtedness on construction, equipment, or both.

The bonds, and the tax rate necessary to pay those bonds, were approved by the voters of this district.

Comparison of Proposed Levy with Last Year's Levy on Average Residence

	Last Year	This Year
Average Market Value of Residences	$ 173,358	$ 175,982
Average Taxable Value of Residences	$ 147,163	$ 150,497
Last Year's Rate Versus
Proposed Rate per $100 Value	$ 1.428350	$ 1.390100
Taxes Due on Average Residence	$ 2,102.01	$ 2,092.06
Increase (Decrease) in Taxes		$ (9.95)

Under state law, the dollar amount of school taxes imposed on the residence homestead of a person 65 years of age or older or of the surviving spouse of such a person, if the surviving spouse was 55 years of age or older when the person died, may not be increased above the amount paid in the first year after the person turned 65, regardless of changes in the tax rate or property value.

Notice of Voter-Approval Rate: The highest tax rate the district can adopt before requiring voter approval at an election is $1.390100. This election will be automatically held if the district adopts a rate in excess of the voter-approval rate of $1.390100.

Fund Balances

The following estimated balances will remain at the end of the current fiscal year and are not encumbered with or by a corresponding debt obligation, less estimated funds necessary for operating the district before receipt of the first state aid payment:

Maintenance and Operations Fund Balance(s)	$ 23,267,348
Interest & Sinking Fund Balance(s)	$ 8,053,785

A school district may not increase the district's maintenance and operations tax rate to create a surplus in maintenance and operations tax revenue for the purpose of paying the district's debt service.

Paseo del Este Municipal Utility District No. 1 Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Rate

The Paseo Del Este Municipal Utility District No. 1 of El Paso County will hold a public hearing on a proposed tax rate for the tax year 2020 on Wednesday, September 23, 2020, at 10:30 A.M. MT by means of using a toll-free conference number (877-853-5257 | Meeting ID: 991 0207 0281 | Passcode: 537205), pursuant to Section 551.125, Texas Government Code, as modified temporarily by Governor Greg Abbott, and the related guidance from the Office of the Texas Attorney General, in connection with the Governor's COVID-19 Disaster Proclamation.

Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the tax rate that is adopted and on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property. The change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property determines the distribution of the tax burden among all property owners.

Good or bad, social justice protests reach the sports world

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

I've been in this business for 27 years and I love writing about sports.

Sports are where people go to get away from much of the bad news they're bombarded with every single day.

As a rule, I try never to include politics in my sports writing. Like I said, people watch, listen and read about sports to get away from things like politics.

But I'm going to make an exception this week because of all the politics that made its way into sports last week.

Athletes took matters into their own hands last week when NBA playoffs games were postponed, Major League Baseball games weren't played, NHL hockey playoff games were called off and even some NFL football practices were cancelled.

This was all in protest of the police shooting of Jacob Blake.

It even got to the point where NBA players held a vote on whether to just quit on the playoffs altogether. They didn't.

I am a proud American who believes as long as one isn't infringing on the rights of others, that everyone in this country has the right to free speech. Everyone can voice their opinion without being silenced or threatened. That's probably the most amazing thing about America.

But with that kind of freedom comes responsibility.

Nowadays, many people feel that they have a right to speak and anyone who disagrees should be silenced.

That kind of disregard for human rights worked for Adolph Hitler, it worked for Fidel Castro, it worked for Saddam Hussein and Mao and Stalin and Pol Pot... at least for a little while.

But the evil that comes with controlling people's thoughts and actions is always eventually defeated.

That's part of the reason people from all over the planet flock to this country. For the freedom to express themselves and for the freedom to have the chance to be whatever they want to be.

For athletes in the USA, they have an opportunity most of us will never come close to experiencing. They have a chance to make millions for playing a game.

And that's why most fans watch them; to see them perform at a high level.

I know it's not many athletes, but the ones who do make the pros are especially fortunate.

But a trend is beginning where some athletes are trying to create the idea that America is a racist country. That America is racist against African Americans.

This is a little unusual coming from athletes making millions of dollars. Would a racist nation allow African Americans to make that kind of money? Would it allow African Americans to be police or doctors or scientists or business leaders or politicians? Would a racist nation have elected an African American president... twice?

In the George Floyd incident, it was clear and obvious that the police officer didn't care about the Floyd's life. As people around him were pleading and telling him that he was going to kill the man, the officer didn't care. Should that officer suffer the consequences for his actions? Of course he should.

Should people go out and destroy cities because of it? Of course not.

Does that mean all white police officers are the same? Of course not.

In the Jacob Blake case, things were a little different.

I'm not an expert on police work by any means, but as I saw it, only two things were going to happen. After Blake broke away from police, he was either reaching into his car to grab a weapon, or he was going to get in his car and take off with three kids in the back seat.

Under one scenario he would have turned around and attacked the officers, or he would have taken off, which would have resulted in a high speed chase with young kids in the car.

The problem is that many people, including athletes, are looking at both these incidents the exact same way.

And until all of us act rationally and wait for all the facts to come in, we'll continue to have needless riots in the streets.

Honestly, I don't care what the facts say, as long as the facts are followed and justice is administered fairly.

and internet access will be provided. Parents can also choose to have their children remain off campus and continue with an asynchronous learning model.

Families with extenuating circumstances

Beginning September 14, 2020, a limited number of students whose families have extenuating circumstances may return to campus also to receive online instruction. Parents who have special circumstances are asked to please contact their home campus, so administration can work to support them during the remote learning transition period.

Prior to the return of all faculty and staff, schools will have limited capacity available to provide a safe space and monitoring for students on campus.

"I wish we could bring all students back to school on day one of our transition, but it is critical to implement a phased approach to our return to in-person instruction in order to keep safety as our top priority. Our campus and district staff will take the time during each phase to properly train stakeholders on safety protocols that will ensure our students and staff remain safe and healthy," said Espinoza.

Families who chose traditional/hybrid, in-person learning model

Students whose parents opted for the traditional/hybrid model on the Parent Scheduling Survey will return to their campuses to receive in-person instruction by their classroom teachers beginning September 28, 2020.

After the completion of the first 9-weeks grading period, parents have the option to change the learning model for their child by contacting their campus. Adjustments to the learning option may result in a change in students' schedule and/or teacher(s). SISD is working to accommodate students and parents as much as possible.

"Our goal is to continue learning through this challenging time while adapting and adjusting our plans to serve our community the best we can within the guidelines and directives set forth by local and state agencies," Espinoza concluded.

As with all COVID-19 plans, it is important to note that details may be subject to change pending the state of the local community health and new guidance issued by national, state, and local authorities as the district progresses through the school year.

as fundraisers? You guessed it: face masks with "MAGA" or simply "Trump" on them. Again, the wisdom of P.T. Barnum:

"The common man, no matter how sharp and tough, actually enjoys having the wool pulled over his eyes, and makes it easier for the puller."

We can witness a one-man show not only with his convention spectacle, but with his entire campaign. It was ever thus with him, saying in 2016, "I alone can fix it," referring to the state of the country. And now, four years later, standing in the wreckage he has caused, telling a group of conservatives, "I'm the only thing standing between the American Dream and total anarchy, madness and chaos."

So remember the two P.T.s:

P.T. Barnum and the modern P.T., President Trump. As he seeks re-election, Donald Trump once again will be testing still another quote from the master showman of days gone by as he parodied Abraham Lincoln:

"You can fool most of the people most of the time."

Pulmonary fibrosis needs exact diagnosis

DEAR DR. ROACH: My husband was recently diagnosed with mild to moderate pulmonary fibrosis. His mother died from pulmonary fibrosis. From what we have read there is no cure, only palliative care. The thought of doing nothing to try to stop the progression is totally unacceptable when there have been such successes with immunotherapy and stem cells. Would he receive more aggressive treatment going to a pulmonary fibrosis care center that has lung disease programs? – C.D.

There are several diseases that may cause fibrosis of the lung, so having an exact diagnosis made by an expert is critical for getting the right treatment. The most common type of pulmonary fibrosis is called "idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis" (it also has been called "usual interstitial pneumonia" and "cryptogenic fibrosing alveolitis"), and I am going to discuss that diagnosis.

The cause of IPF is unknown (both "idiopathic" and "cryptogenic" mean "of unknown cause"), but cigarette smoking is a risk factor. It is usually diagnosed in people who are their 50s and 60s, although some familial cases may come on earlier. IPF can run in families.

Although it is a rare disease, it seems to be on the rise. The major symptoms are cough and shortness of breath.

There is no cure for IPF, but there are treatments available. Two drugs, pirfenidone and nintedanib, are approved for use in the U.S. and Canada. Both of them slow progression of lung disease, reduce exacerbations and have been proven to reduce mortality from the condition, if only slightly. I am concerned that you and your husband apparently haven't heard of these drugs.

I strongly advise you get a referral to a center for lung disease in order to get your husband the best care. I found 35 IPF trials recruiting patients in the U.S. and six in Canada. A clinical trial will help scientists understand this condition as well as determine the best current treatment. You also can find out what centers have expertise on this condition by seeing where the trials are conducted at www.clinicaltrials.gov. The most aggressive treatment isn't always the best, but you and your husband deserve to hear about all the options.

The Pulmonary Fibrosis Foundation can help you find experienced centers for treating this condition. You can find them online at www.pulmonaryfibrosis.org.

DEAR DR. ROACH: My niece recently was diagnosed with breast cancer. Radiation was recommended. Her mother said that first she'd have to boost her immune system. Is it possible to actually do that? – P.P.L.

Radiation is a common treatment after breast cancer surgery. It's done to reduce the risk of recurrence, depending on the exact type of cancer.

Boosting the immune system is a new adjunct for many types of cancer. There are several ways to do this: One is to genetically modify the patient's own immune T-cells, but many other techniques are in trials now.

However, if your niece's mother is talking about supplements, I'd be cautious. Supplements that are promoted to boost the immune system generally are ineffective at doing so. Making sure your niece has proper nutrition, gets good sleep and experiences as little stress as is manageable are ways to prevent stress on the immune system. Everyone could benefit from those deceptively simple steps, but especially a person being treated for cancer.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. (c) 2020 North America Synd., Inc. All Rights Reserved.

A child like that

by Freddy Groves

The regular crew of older veterans was spread out on the sidewalk in front of the coffee shop, but I didn't expect they'd be there long. The heat was coming up and it was going to be a brutal day. Half of them were drinking iced coffees.

One of them held out his paper coffee cup to me as I walked up. "A little more ice, please, since you're standing right there." I took his cup and tapped on the pickup window glass. The unfriendly counter girl dumped a few more pieces of ice in the cup. When I didn't take it away, she added a few more.

One of the vets was reading from his tablet, an iPad that seemed to have every single news alert known to man. Every few minutes it dinged.

A woman pulled into a parking space and climbed out.

"Here comes my warden," muttered one of the vets.

"Daddy, I'm concerned about you in this heat," the woman said to him. "Are you about ready to come home?"

"I was about to order a sandwich," he said, but he was finishing up his coffee as he said it.

"I have ham and cheese and turkey and salami at home, if that's OK. And the big Kaiser rolls you like."

"Hope there's enough mustard," he said, getting up and folding his chair.

After she'd loaded him in the car and driven off, the group went quiet until: "Be a heck of a thing if she hadn't taken him in."

The story came out in pieces: The daughter had discovered her veteran father in sad shape in the retirement home, had a few choice, very loud words to say to management, and had promptly packed up her daddy and taken him home with her. That was mere weeks before the coronavirus hit the home and veterans started getting sick.

"Yup," said another veteran, taking a final sip of his coffee. "We all need a child like that."

• A tip from our good friend A.S.M.: "When buying berries packed in a basket, check the bottom to see if there's a juice stain. This means that the strawberries at the bottom are crushed."

• "Here's a great tip for use at bath time with baby: I have a sippy cup that changes color when the drink is hot. Oddly enough, it changes at the perfect temperature for baby's bath. So, I fill the tub and toss in the cup. When the cup starts to change back to its original color (blue), I know the bathwater is not too hot. I always swish the water around and check with my wrist also, but it is a good visual clue to check." – P.B. in Idaho

• "To remove muffins or rolls from a pan, set it on an old, damp towel for a minute. The steam must loosen the bottoms because they just slide right out. I thank my mom for this tip." – J.R. via e-mail

• When heating milk in a pan, "seal" the pan with unsalted butter to keep the milk from filming and sticking to the sides. Lightly coat all sides of the pan with butter, and the milk is sure to not leave scum, which can take away from the rich flavor of the milk.

• Do you find yourself throwing away unused and spoiled fruits and veggies at the end of the week? Try setting aside time after you come home from the grocery store for prepping fruits and vegetables. Pre-bag snack sizes of carrots, celery, strawberries, grapes, cantaloupe and apples. Pre-cut veggies for meals to make later in the week. Slice tomatoes and onions for sandwiches, and tear and separate lettuce for salads. They all make great, healthy treats, and having them ready to go makes it easier to get that five a day!

GO FIGURE!

by Linda Thistle

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.
