Diversity award

Canutillo Independent School District's Northwest Early College High School (NWECHS) has been recognized for Closing the Gender Gap in AP Computer Science Principles by earning the College Board AP® Computer Science Female Diversity Award for achieving high female representation in AP Computer Science Principles. Schools honored with the AP Computer Science Female Diversity Award have expanded girls' access in AP computer science courses. More than 1,000 institutions achieved either 50% or higher female representation in one of the two AP computer science courses or a percentage of the female computer science exam takers meeting or exceeding that of the school's female population during the 2020-21 school year. "We're thrilled to congratulate our female AP computer science students and their teachers on this step toward gender parity in computer science education," said NWECHS Principal, Jesica Arellano. "We're honored that our school earned this distinction and look forward to seeing these young women and others pursue and achieve success in computer science education and careers."

Financial excellence

The Texas Association of School Business Officials (TASBO) recently awarded the Canutillo Independent School District Financial Services Department with the Award of Excellence in Financial Management. The TASBO Award of Excellence in Financial Management was designed to honor Texas school districts, open-enrollment charter schools, and education service centers that have implemented professional standards, best practices, and innovations in financial reporting and exemplify meaningful transparency and responsible accounting practices. "As public servants, we realize the responsibility bestowed upon us to manage federal, state, and taxpayer dollars with diligence and integrity," said Martha Piekarski, Canutillo ISD Chief Business Officer. "We are committed to making sure every dollar under the district's purview is adequately accounted for and

TOP THREE – The "I Voted" sticker design by Layla M. Gonzalez, a seventh grader at Jose J. Alderete Middle School in the Canutillo School District, will be El Paso County's official decal for the 2022 election cycle. Gonzales' design won the recent "I Voted" sticker contest and will make its debut during the upcoming primary elections. Second place design winner was Jair Herrera, a sixth grader from Del Valle Middle School, and third place was Luna D. Robledo, a sixth grader from Hanks Middle School. Judges for the contest were Christin Apodaca, local illustrator and muralist; Chelsie Evaldi, owner of Chuco Relic, and Miriam Garcia, Public Art Program Supervisor for the City of El Paso.

Voter registration deadline is January 31

EL PASO COUNTY – A critical starting point for a contentious mid-term general election in November is fast approaching with the primary elections slated for Tuesday, March 1st. But to cast a ballot in the primaries, Texas residents must be registered to vote by Monday, January 31st. The winners of the Republican primary will face off against the winners of the Democrat primary in the November 8th general election.

Several political offices are up for grabs this upcoming election, including four El Paso-area state representative seats. And seven Democrat and six Republican candidates have filed to run for state governor. Republican candidates are Greg Abbott, Paul Belew, Danny Harrison, Kandy Kaye Horn, Don Huffines, and Allen West. The Democrat challengers are Beto O'Rourke, Inocencio "Inno" Barrientez, Michael Cooper, Joy Diaz, Jack Daniel Foster Jr., Dierdre Gilbert, and Star Locke.

All four Texas state representative seats that cover El Paso County: Districts 75, 77, 78 and 79 are up for election this year. Claudia Ordaz Perez, who currently represents district 76, will challenge incumbent Art Fierro in the Democratic primary for the District 79 seat. No candidates filed to run in the Republican primary. District 76 was merged into two districts- District 77, represented by Lina Ortega, and District 79, represented by Fierro.

Ortega and District 78 state Rep. Joe Moody have no challengers in the primary or general elections. District 75 state Rep. Mary González will face Rene Rodriguez in the Democrat primary. There is no Republican challenger. Democrat state senator César Blanco also faces no primary or general election challengers for District 29.

Veronica Escobar will seek reelection to a third term to the Texas District 16 seat, which encompasses most of El Paso, in the U.S. House of Representatives. She will face Deliris Montanez Berrios in the March Democrat primary election. Republican Irene Armendariz Jackson, who was defeated by Escobar in her 2020 bid for U.S. Congress, is the only Republican challenger. She will go up against the winner of the March Democrat primary election.

El Paso County Judge Ricardo Samaniego faces a primary election challenger in independent candidate Guadalupe Giner, but faces no Democrat or Republican candidates. Democrat Precinct 2 County Commissioner David Stout will face two primary challengers: Judy Gutierrez and Carlos Soto. Democrat Precinct 4 County Commissioner Carl Robinson also will face off against two primary challengers: Dorothy "Sissy" Byrd and Sergio Coronado. Four Republican candidates have filed to run for Precinct 4 county commissioner: David Adams, Adam Fatuch, Victor Navarette, and Blanca Trout.

Meanwhile, El Paso County election department officials announced recently that they have started mailing out voter registration certificates countywide.

Registered voters in El Paso County who have not received a new Voter Registration Certificate are advised to contact the county elections office at (915) 546-2154 or visit its website at www.epcountyvotes.com, so that their information may be

The high-water mark of Biden-era progressivism

Joe Manchin and London Breed have nothing in common.

One is an old-school Democratic senator from West Virginia, surviving and thriving in an increasingly red state; the other is the progressive mayor of San Francisco, a city that is a byword for cutting-edge left-wing politics.

Yet both, in their own ways signaled that Biden-era progressivism has reached its high-water mark. Manchin, of course, delivered down to Joe Biden's signature Build Back Better plan, while Breed reversed field on crime in a stunningly frank endorsement of law-and-order in a jurisdiction infamous for the opposite.

The de facto pincer movement by the wildly different Democrats from wildly different parts of the country – San Francisco is roughly 19 times as large as the biggest city in West Virginia – shows that the progressive tide that built in the Trump years is finally colliding with political reality and the real-world consequences of progressive extravagance.

This doesn't mean that progressivism is spent obviously.

It dominates the media, academia and almost all the rest of elite culture. At the same time, Democrats still control the elected branches of government in Washington. But a growing backlash against progressive excess has found expression in two notable acts of Democratic defiance.

By now, the context of Manchin's "no" on Build Back Better is familiar. Joe Biden campaigned as a pragmatic Democrat only to reverse field after his election and develop a heroic image of himself as the next transformational Democratic president in the line of FDR and LBJ.

This drove the mistake of not realizing that Manchin or any other Democratic dissenter in the 50-50 Senate had the power to derail Build Back Better and accordingly scaling it back from the outset. Instead, the White House and congressional leadership acted as if Manchin could be cajoled or bullied out of his oft-repeated qualms.

Perhaps Democrats will reunite with the senator on a scaled-back spending bill in the new year, but the era of FDR fantasies is definitely over. Democrats should ask themselves, if they had a mandate to remake the country, why the entire project depended on the approval of a single conservative Democrat from West Virginia?

Now, Democrats are looking down the barrel of a mid-term election wipe-out that could give the GOP a durable House majority that will put paid to any thought of BBB-style legislation for years.

If Manchin said "enough" to big-spending federal aggrandizement, London Breed said it to the soft-on-crime consensus in blue cities that has led to spiraling disorder. The Bay Area, home to the smash-and-grab robbery and other routine offenses against basic human decency, has been Exhibit A.

Concluding that even the tolerant people of perhaps the country's most tolerant city wouldn't put up with it much

Test, jab, boost, repeat

Joe Biden introduced his "new" plan<sup>1</sup> to save us from the dread coronavirus. He will provide 500 million "free" tests (paid for by taxpayers or with borrowed money); 1,000 National Guard troops to overstressed hospitals; and more pressure to get vaccinated and boosted.

According to the Kaiser Family Foundation, we would need 2.3 billion tests<sup>2</sup> per month to test every person over age 12 twice per week at the recommended frequency of twice per week. What type of test, and where would we get them? Pharmacies are running out of home antigen tests. We have no data on the likelihood of false negative or false positive tests, but we do know that with any test, even very good ones, the vast majority of positive tests will be false positives if only a small percentage of the tested group is diseased. Also, tests may remain positive long after a person has recovered and is no longer infectious.

Can the tests harm? False positives lead to isolation with destruction of livelihoods and educational opportunities. We may be having an epidemic of false positive PCR tests<sup>3</sup>. Using too high a cycle threshold, as some labs have routinely done, gives a meaningless result. And from your lab report, you cannot tell what cycle threshold was used.

It is possible that doing the test itself could be fatal. A few military members reportedly had infections with flesh-eating bacteria after getting swabbed, and some of the swabs were found to be contaminated. At least one patient got meningitis<sup>4</sup> when a nasal swab was inserted too far.

Hospitals are indeed overstressed. According to a talk radio host, patients are dying in the halls and waiting room of a local hospital because of short staffing. Will 1,000 troops help? Mayo alone just fired 700 unvaccinated workers<sup>5</sup>. An Ohio physician reported that the troops were causing chaos. They didn't even know where supplies were kept, and after a 12-hour shift might be dispatched to another state before they had time to learn the local system. Under CMS waivers<sup>6</sup> covering the declared emergency, minimally qualified personnel may be used. And now the most experienced and dedicated workers, the very ones most likely to exercise independent judgment and stand up for patients, are being culled.

Will more vaccines and boosters help? Biden asserts that it's a "patriotic duty" to get jabbed, and more jabs are the only way to end the disaster. No matter how much respect you have for his mental abilities, he is likely quoting the American Medical Association<sup>7</sup>. The jabs do not appear to be effective against the new variants, and might even be creating them. There is talk of a fourth shot—but apparently no stopping point<sup>8</sup> for adverse effects such as myocarditis in children.

The U.S. has one of the worst records in the world for controlling COVID-19. Moreover, the most reliable source of statistics, insurance actuaries, shows that deaths in the prime working age group are up 40 percent<sup>9</sup>, and disability claims are also up. A 10 percent increase would be the equivalent of a 200-year flood. The claims are not citing COVID-19 as a cause of death. They could be collateral damage from government policy, including poor medical care for virtually everything, or they could be from vaccination.

States are pushing back against the mandates, which are being imposed by executive order through unaccountable administrative agencies. The U.S. Supreme Court should be considering whether the administrative state has the constitutional or statutory authority<sup>10</sup> to impose a medical dictatorship that overrides the states' authority and citizens' basic rights. Some Justices, however, seem to be taking the end-justifies-the-means approach – and that based on egregiously erroneous information<sup>11</sup>. For example, Justice Breyer asserted that there were 750 million cases (in a population of about 330 million) and Justice Sotomayor asserted that there were 100,000 hospitalized children (instead of fewer than 4,000, mostly not for COVID-19). The harms from the mandated vaccines were simply ignored. Even if the “experts” Biden is relying upon, under the titular leadership of Anthony Fauci, were right this time, the precedent could grant unlimited power to a medical dictatorship to force disastrous policy on all Americans. Instead of endlessly repeating failed policy, how about firing the generals<sup>12</sup> who are in charge of the losing war?

According to an El Paso County elections administrator, a voter registration certificate is not required to vote in person and does not serve as an acceptable form of photo identification for voting. However, if a voter is unable to reasonably obtain an acceptable form of photo identification, the voter registration certificate may be used as a supporting document at the voting place.

Other important dates preceding the March 1st primary to note include Monday, February 14, which is the first day of early voting by personal appearance. Friday, February 18, is the last day to apply for ballot by mail (received, not postmarked); and Friday, February 25, is last day of early voting by personal appearance.

Election Day, Tuesday, March 1, will be the last day for county election officials to receive ballots by mail if carrier envelope is not postmarked; or Thursday, March 3, (next business day after Election Day) if carrier envelope is appropriately postmarked (unless overseas or military voter deadlines apply).

The impact of exercise on the body and brain health of America's seniors

People should check with their doctor before beginning any new health or exercise program

Every year at this time there is a call for seniors to establish an exercise routine. The holidays are over and so is the copious feasting that goes with the season. It's time to lose a few pounds.

The Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC) strongly encourages older Americans to stay in shape. But we offer this advice with an abundance of caution. Your health care providers call the shots and we recommend that seniors heed their advice when it comes to what you should or should not do for exercise, says AMAC's CEO Rebecca Weber.

cognitive & behavioral neurology at the Veterans Affairs Boston Healthcare System, lecturer in neurology at Harvard Medical School, and chair of the Science of Learning Innovation Group at the Harvard Medical School Academy. He says that "Changes in strength, swiftness, and stamina with age are all associated with decreasing muscle mass. Although there is not much decline in your muscles between ages 20 and 40, after age 40 there can be a decline of 1% to 2% per year in lean body mass and 1.5% to 5% per year in strength."

Dr. Budson notes that aging can also raise coordination issues as we grow older, issues that are associated to the brain and nervous system. He says that reduced strength and coordination, too, is the result of a lack of physical activity.

Certified Cognitive Behavioral Therapy specialist Brock Armstrong, agrees. He says, "Exercise affects the brain in many ways. It increases heart rate, which pumps more oxygen to the brain. It aids the release of hormones which provide an excellent environment for the growth of brain cells. Exercise also promotes brain plasticity by stimulating growth of new connections

• On Jan. 24, 1935, canned beer makes its debut. In partnership with the American Can Company, the Gottfried Krueger Brewing Company delivered 2,000 cans of beer to faithful Krueger drinkers in Richmond, Virginia. Some 91% of the drinkers approved of the canned beer.

• On Jan. 25, 1905, at the Premier Mine in Pretoria, South Africa, a 3,106-carat diamond is discovered. Weighing 1.33 pounds and christened the "Cullinan," it was the largest diamond ever found.

• On Jan. 26, 1788, Capt. Arthur Phillip guides a fleet of 11 British ships carrying convicts to the colony of New South Wales, effectively founding Australia. The date eventually became commemorated as Australia Day.

• On Jan. 27, 1967, a fire on the launch pad during Apollo 1 program tests at Cape Canaveral, Florida, kills astronauts Virgil "Gus" Grissom, Edward H. White II and Roger B. Chaffee. An investigation implicated a faulty electrical wire inside the command module as the probable cause.

• On Jan. 28, 1985, dozens of pop stars gather to lay down tracks for "We Are the World," under the direction of Quincy Jones. The song would go on to sell more than 7 million copies and raise more than $60 million for African famine relief. Participants were told: "Check your egos at the door."

• On Jan. 29, 1979, Brenda Spencer, 16, kills two men and wounds nine children as they enter an elementary school in San Diego, blasting away with a rifle from her home across the street. Despite drug abuse and anger issues, her father had given her a .22 rifle and 500 rounds of ammunition as a Christmas gift.

Candidate wants to stop China's purchases of Texas land

We don't make enough of our products in America anymore. We've known this for decades, but it became more apparent during the early days of Covid. We had difficulty making medical masks because so many are made in China. We had difficulty with manufacturing therapeutics and medicines because so much of it is made in China.

America didn't get in this situation overnight. The Trump years showed us that our so-called leaders had sold America down the river for decades. Our "leaders" had given China sweetheart trade deals and, through tax and regulatory policies, ran the cost of labor and production up so much that it forced jobs overseas.

We have our work cut out for us to fix these problems. But there's another one that's looming and is definitely one that we Texans need to be ready for this election season. China has been very busy buying real estate and land all across the country. Texas Congressman Chip Roy this past summer authored a bill that would prohibit the purchase of land by China. Congressman Roy did so after learning that a Chinese energy company bought over 130,000 acres of land near Laughlin Air Force base, just outside of Del Rio. And while his efforts are appreciated, we can do even more. This isn't a real estate problem. This is a national security crisis.

I'm running for Texas General Land Office Commissioner. One of the jobs of the Texas Land Commissioner is to broker land deals on behalf of the state, deals that should benefit all Texans. The lack of transparency and accountability by career politicians remains a significant problem. Texans should know who is leasing our lands, and I want to know how our interests have been protected from foreign advisories over the last several years. We'll never know unless someone is willing to roll up his sleeves and do the dirty work. If I'm elected, I will conduct a full forensic audit of all the land deals that are currently on the books at the Land office. I will disclose the findings of the audit and if any leases have ties to foreign governments, I'll get us out of those deals. We can't repeat the mistakes made in the past and sell our future to communist Chinese, Russia, or anyone else. We can't allow China to buy Texas.

Packers may have lost, but Jones is always a winner

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

Much to the surprise of a lot of football experts, the Green Bay Packers' season ended abruptly last Saturday when they were upset by the San Francisco 49ers on a last-second walk-off field goal.

The top-ranked Packers, who received a bye into the second round of the playoffs by having the best record in the NFL, were supposed to have little trouble getting past the Niners.

After all, this game was in Green Bay, Wisconsin and the weather was just the way the folks at Lambeau Field like it – extremely cold, windy with snow falling on the ground.

Naturally, the guys from sunny California didn't stand a chance in these weather conditions. But in the end, the 49ers will advance to the next round of the playoffs while the Packers will go home and wonder whether they'll have Aaron Rodgers as their quarterback next season.

The one player you couldn't fault for Green Bay's loss was Aaron Jones. The former UTEP and Burges High star picked up 170 total yards running and catching the football.

But while his teammates pack their bags and start their off-season routine, Aaron Jones still has some NFL business to take care of.

On February 10, the NFL will select this season's Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award and Jones is one of the 32 players nominated.

It's great fun to watch Aaron run through the line for a big gain, or score a touchdown and flash his 9-1-5 hand signal to the world. It's awesome to see him catch a pass out of the backfield and turn a short reception into a big play.

But that's all for show. That's all a part of the spectacle we pay to see. And Jones is now a millionaire because he performs well on the big stage.

But a big question is – what do you do when the show is over?

Most players enjoy the new luxurious life they have, and who can blame them?

And then there are some players who spend a lot of their non-football time helping others. Aaron Jones is one of those special individuals.

According to the league, the "Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award recognizes an NFL player for his excellence on and off the field. The award was established in 1970. It was renamed in 1999 after the late Hall of Fame Chicago

– Evan Siegle / Packers.com

Green Bay Packers running back Aaron Jones on the move in last Saturday's game against San Francisco.

Bears running back, Walter Payton. Each team nominates one player who has had a significant positive impact on his community."

Why was he nominated? Jones has been involved with numerous programs and charities that benefit kids. He makes it a habit to attend a variety of Boys & Girls Club events in the Green Bay and Milwaukee area.

He hosts football camps during the offseason in El Paso and Wisconsin. Jones frequently visits children in hospitals, whether in person or over video, and has highlighted them and their courage through the NFL's My Cause My Cleats campaign.

Jones recently launched the A&A All the Way Foundation with his twin brother, Alvin Jr.

The foundation was formed to make an impact in the lives of children through charitable giving. It was founded to hold events that inspire, educate and promote unity and diversity and helps address children's basic needs, providing opportunities for recreation and fitness, and supporting children in military families.

He has had turkey giveaways for needy families in both El Paso and Green Bay, run football camps for kids and given bikes away to students. He has also extended his Yards for Shoes campaign, which donates a pair of shoes to children at Boys & Girls Clubs throughout Wisconsin for every rushing yard he gains this season up to 1,000 yards.

The Foundation also includes the Freedom Is Campaign, which he started in 2021 and focuses on raising funds to provide happy experiences to children who have parents serving in the military.

Let's face it, when compared to football, what Jones is doing for others, especially kids, is far more meaningful.

It's real life, it's important, it's what really matters.

Whether he wins the award or not, El Paso couldn't be prouder of Aaron Jones and how he represents the city – and himself.

between cells in many important cortical areas of the brain. Research from UCLA even demonstrated that exercise increased growth factors in the brain which makes it easier for the brain to grow new neuronal connections."

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) also tells us that as we age cognitive issues may emerge. For example, it can get harder to make quick decisions. "Age-related diseases accelerate the rate of neuronal dysfunction, neuronal loss, and cognitive decline, with many persons developing cognitive impairments severe enough to impair their everyday functional abilities, the definition of dementia.

There is growing evidence that healthy lifestyles may decrease the rate of cognitive decline seen with aging and help delay the onset of cognitive symptoms in the setting of age-associated diseases."

In other words, says AMAC's Weber, exercise can be good for the brain and body as we age; talk to your doctor about it. He or she can help you design an exercise regimen tailored to your needs.

Bipolar disease takes four different forms

DEAR DR. ROACH: Is it possible for a person to reach the age of 70 and just now be diagnosed with bipolar disorder? Are there degrees of impairment, like with autism – some worse than others? – C.S.

The hallmark of bipolar disease is mania. "Mania" has a specific meaning in psychiatry: It's a very elevated mood, associated with high amounts of energy and an inability to think clearly, especially to see the consequences of one's actions. Some common features of people in a manic episode include an inflated sense of self-worth, distractibility and racing ideas. People can be very talkative and feel little need to sleep. Dangerously, people in a manic phase can spend large amounts of money and have many sexual indiscretions.

All diseases have a spectrum of severity, and some are quite wide. With bipolar disease in particular, however, there are four distinct forms of the disease. Bipolar I is the classic form, once called "manic depressive illness," where people have episodes of mania, alternating with periods of normal behavior or depression. People with Bipolar II have depressive episodes and some "hypomanic" episodes: periods of high energy (and sometimes profound productivity), usually without the negative aspects of the "full" manic episode. Cyclothymia is a rapid cycling between hypomania and mild depression. There is a fourth type, "unspecified," where people have abnormal mood elevations but don't meet criteria for the other types.

Bipolar disease usually has its onset in early adulthood, but sometimes in teens or even childhood. However, I have rarely seen bipolar disease diagnosed in someone as old as 70. It isn't always clear whether the disease is just manifesting that late, or whether it has been around for many years, but compensated for by the person. Some people don't interact with a lot of family or friends, and manic or hypomanic episodes might be missed. It's possible the 70-year-old in question has a quite mild form.

Treatment for bipolar disorder can dramatically improve the quality of life of the person and of the family and friends affected by the illness.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have been diagnosed with vaginal atrophy. My primary doctor prescribed estrogen, which doesn't seem to be helping after a year. I have also seen a woman's doctor, who prescribed an antifungal, but this does not seem to be helping the symptoms. Do you have any suggestions as to what I should do? – Anon.

As a general rule, when appropriate therapy is not effective, it's time to reconsider whether the initial diagnosis was correct. In this case, I would be concerned that the diagnosis of vaginal atrophy might be wrong, or might not be the only issue. I have received letters from women who were treated for atrophic vaginitis for years before the diagnosis of lichen sclerosis was made. Appropriate therapy for that diagnosis relieved the symptoms. When you go back to the woman's doctor, I would ask about that diagnosis. A biopsy may be necessary to make that diagnosis. There are other less common causes as well.

Vaginal atrophy, when treated with estrogen, usually has noticeable improvement within a week or two. Fungal infection is possible (but should be apparent on exam), but it also gets better quickly. A year is too long to wait.

OIG is VA's crime dog

by Freddy Groves

Despite COVID and all the restrictions from it, the Department of Veterans Affairs Office of Inspector General has been busy. Here are a few of the scams they've uncovered and pursued:

Two men in New Jersey pleaded guilty to paying and soliciting kickbacks and bribery. They roped in telemedicine doctors who faked orders for items such as braces and prescriptions. The thieves then billed Medicare, the Department of Veterans Affairs, TRICARE and other programs while hiding behind fake company owners. The tab to the government when they were caught was approximately $50 million.

In Chicago, two VA prosthetics clerks took cash from vendors after sending business to them for medical equipment. Bribery, wire fraud, conspiracy – this case had it all. The thieves used government purchase cards to place those orders and rented the equipment instead of buying it as the VA doctors had ordered. One of those companies was paid almost $1.4 million.

In Florida, two men were nabbed for much the same thing – soliciting and paying for bribes, then getting kickbacks for ordering medical equipment such as braces that weren't actually medically necessary. Again, this involved telemedicine. And again, this involved compounded medication prescriptions. The hit to TRICARE, ChampVA and Medicare came to $25 million.

But a final case at a rooming house tugs at the heartstrings. The thief grabbed Social Security and VA benefits that belonged to the mentally ill, disabled, veterans and elderly for their care and housing. There were 35 counts to the indictment, which included wire fraud, document tampering, making false statements, mail fraud and first-degree theft. The thief managed to get herself named as Representative Payee and spent the money on herself instead of on her tenants.

As always, a big thumbs-up to the OIG.

- Generally, for every degree you lower your thermostat during heating season, you reduce your energy costs by 3%.

- Just in time for soup season (and my new year's resolutions), here's a great fat swap: Drain and rinse 2 cups of white beans and puree with a cup of no-sodium vegetable broth. You can use this as a thickener in place of heavy cream for soups and stews. – JoAnn

- To keep snow off your windshield, use a flannel-backed tablecloth stretched to cover both windshield and wipers. Put it flannel-side to the glass. Then you'll be able to lift it (and the snow) off your windshield to drive.

- Wondering what winter fruits and vegetables are in season? Here's a sampling: apples, dates and pears, as well as citrus, like grapefruit, oranges and tangerines. For vegetables, consider endive, bok choy, Brussels sprouts, kale, leeks, mushrooms, parsnips, radicchio, rutabagas, sweet potatoes, turnips, yams and winter squash.

- "Want to keep your pants from creasing on the hanger? Grab an empty paper-towel tube and slit it down the side. When you slip it over the bottom of the hanger, it creates a wide curve for the pants to lie across, and no more crease!" – M.U. in Colorado

- Remember that as temperatures drop and layers of clothing increase, children in a car seat need special consideration. Remove heavy coats before strapping in a small child or baby. Winter wear can compress during an accident, and it interferes with the straps.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.
