Olivas encourages young adults to participate, to vote

EL PASO COUNTY – El Pasoan and former NASA astronaut Dr. Danny Olivas is leading a new mission: VOTE FOR FREEDOM. And he chose El Paso Community College (EPCC) for the launch in the region.

EPCC Student Government Association (SGA), Campus Life & Student Leadership hosted a ‘fireside chat’ with the former NASA astronaut. He represents the group Astronauts For America (AFA) as part of the VOTE FOR FREEDOM – a non-partisan national college tour. The initiative aims to encourage young Americans to seek common ground and help heal our nation by being active participants in our representative democracy.

“Going to the polls is a small step for each American, but a giant leap for our country,” Olivas said. Olivas, along with SGA Vice President Erick

Gutierrez-Carlson, held a question and answer session with EPCC students at the Valle Verde AST Flexitorium.

“I think it’s a really good thing to assist students to register and remind them to vote,” Abril Aguilar, a multidisciplinary studies major, said. “It’s great to have it here on campus and have a voice.”

“I was really touched by the message, seeing someone who grew up in El Paso and accomplished so many things, it was a great message,” Jalen Rodriguez, a Nursing major, said. “You can make it big, and how important it is to vote, just an important message.”

“Young voters are the stewards of our shared future,” Olivas added. “By working across generations, we can contribute to a more robust and deliberative democracy where elected officials are held accountable and constitutional rights are respected and upheld for the long term.”

Olivas is one of 100 former astronauts in Astronauts For America. The retired astronauts are visiting college campuses across the country over four months, encouraging young Americans to register, vote, and become lifelong participants in our constitutional democracy. The goal is to have real conversations about voting; democracy and the individual and collective power students can have.

During his twelve-year career with NASA, Olivas was a Mission Specialist on two space flights – STS-117 (2007) and STS-128 (2009). He completed five spacewalks, including his repair to the external thermal protection system of the Space Shuttle Atlantis during STS-117. He is a recipient of two NASA Space Flight Medals and the NASA Exceptional Service and Exceptional Achievement Medals.

Born in Los Angeles but raised in El Paso, Olivas graduated from Burges High School and UTEP in 1989. Olivas and his wife, Marie, launched the Space for Everyone Foundation in 2020 to help immigrant families with their health and well-being. Olivas is the descendent of immigrants from the state of Chihuahuas in Mexico.

Socorro ISD completes TEA conservatorship

By Christy Flores-Jones
Special to the Courier

The Texas Education Agency (TEA) removed the agency’s conservators from Socorro Independent School District (SISD). The late September action followed the district’s completion of established exit criteria and sustained implementation of corrective actions.

TEA stated that through close collaboration with conservators Dr. Michael Hinojosa and Andrew Kim, Socorro ISD “stabilized district leadership and rectified identified issues.” TEA also noted that the district selected a permanent superintendent, demonstrated effective governance practices, restored a balanced budget, resolved a $42 million deficit, implemented stronger academic compliance controls, and improved transparency and community engagement practices.

“This is a meaningful moment for Socorro ISD and for our entire community,” Superintendent James Vasquez said. “TEA’s decision recognizes the hard work Team SISD has done to address challenges, strengthen systems, and build a stronger foundation for the future. We are grateful to Dr.

Michael Hinojosa, Andrew Kim, TEA staff, our Board of Trustees, employees, families, and community for their partnership and support throughout this process. We are proud of the progress made, and we remain committed to continuing this work with discipline, transparency, and a focus on student success.”

Socorro ISD has also continued to demonstrate strong academic performance during this period of change, including improved accountability results, an increased number of A-rated campuses, no D- or F-rated campuses.

District leaders emphasized that while the end of conservatorship is a major milestone, the work will continue. Socorro ISD remains focused on long-term financial planning, facilities utilization, enrollment management, employee and community communication, and sustaining the systems strengthened during the past two years.

“We understand that trust is built through continued action,” Vasquez said. “Our responsibility now is to keep moving forward, stay transparent with our community, and continue making decisions that protect student success.”

UTEP’s MWC football debut was a nightmare

By Steve Escajeda
Special to the Courier

They say that you have to take the good with the bad.

UTEP just received a nearly $30 million gift from GECU to support the athletic program and change the name from the Don Haskins Center to the GECU Arena at the Don Haskins Center.

That is good for the Miners.

UTEP head football coach Scotty Walden and his family purchased 2,000 tickets to give away for the teams’ first Mountain West Conference home game at the Sun Bowl against Nevada next Saturday.

That is good for the Miners.

But after UTEP was destroyed by the New Mexico Lobos 61-7 last Saturday in its first game as a member of the MWC, the big question is who in the world wants to go to the Sun Bowl, even with free tickets, to watch this kind of football?

And that is very bad for the Miners.

Bad for attendance revenue, bad for future recruiting, and bad for morale.

After losing games this season by scores of 51-0, 52-17, 33-7 and 61-7, UTEP has put itself in the ranking for the worst team in the county. And how can UTEP fans be surprised, I mean all the signs are there.

There are 138 NCAA football teams in the country, and even before they kicked off against New Mexico, the Miners were ranked toward the bottom in a ton of statistical categories.

And here are some sad examples.

In total offense, the one side of the ball head coach Scotty Walden said his team would excel in, ranked 136th out of the 138 teams. The Miners woeful offense was averaging just 265 yards per game.

Though the defense is doing a little better, it’s still ranks just 94th in the nation, allowing 373 yards per contest.

But the news gets worse from here.

The Miners are among the very worst teams in the country on third down. UTEP ranks 136th in converting third downs at only 25 percent. They also can’t stop their opponents, rankling 135th in allowing teams to convert on third down at 51 percent.

The way to keep an offense on the field is by making first downs. UTEP ranks 133rd with just 58 first downs, while ranking 102nd in allowing first downs with 83.

Another part of the game in which both sides are equally as bad is in the kickoff game. The Miners rank 119th in returning kickoffs, averaging just 15.2 yards per return, while ranking 101st allowing 21.2 kickoff yards per return.

The kicking game overall, has not been productive for the Miners. UTEP ranks 130th in punting with a 33.4-yard average, while ranking 132nd in punt return defense, allowing 19.6 yards per return.

Where the Miners are really hurting is on offense, where they’ve struggled to get anything going (except for their 51-10 win over little Texas Southern) all season.

After announcing that the Miners had found a star quarterback in E.J. Colson, UTEP ranks 133rd in passing yards with just 137 per game.

The running game isn’t much better, ranked 109th in the country, rushing for just 128 yards per game.

That offense, on many occasions, looks totally confused. It’s ranked 127th in scoring, putting up just 18.8 points a game. And when you combine that with a defense that is ranked 134th, allowing 36.5 points, there aren’t going to be a lot of wins out there.

The Miners’ offensive line has also struggled big time, allowing 17 sacks (4.3 per game) ranking them 136th in the nation. They’ve also allowed 35 tackles for loss with 35 (8.8 per game), ranking them 137th.

It’s one thing to be a struggling football team, but it’s quite another to be as bad as the Miners are in so many aspects of the game.

This is Walden’s third season at UTEP, and he’s compiled a 6-23 record. In those 29 games, the Miners have score 19 points or less on 15 occasions and have allowed 30 or more a total of 17 times.

It’s one thing to be humbled by Oklahoma and Michigan, but when you’re outscored 94-14 by Oregon State and New Mexico, things are bad.

The only good thing about being this bad is that there’s only one way left to go.

Sometimes less is better

Researchers studying how the body responds to exercise had some very surprising results recently. While the study document was packed with medical terms and graphs, the end result was clear. In this case, when it came to one particular exercise, it turned out that less was better than more.

One group of participants completed six 30-second exercises called sprint interval training (SIT), working at maximum intense effort on an exercise bike. They rested for four minutes between each exercise. The other group of participants had a fairly leisurely experience on an exercise bike, pedaling at moderate speed for 90 minutes.

Blood samples were taken just before any exercise was started, when the exercise was finished and three hours later.

The results: One-quarter of the proteins in the blood were changed by the sprinter exercises, while the leisurely cyclers barely saw a change of one-quarter of one percent of those proteins. Those proteins are important and affect type 2 diabetes, obesity, blood vessel growth, metabolic disorders and more.

While the results of this research just came out, the idea is apparently not new. Ten years ago the National Institutes of health (NIH) published a document extolling the benefits of sprint interval training as a way to get sedentary individuals to exercise. They looked at several studies, each with different numbers of sprints of varying lengths. They concluded that less is more – fewer sprints of shorter time – to improve health markers.

Before you try this on your own, ask your doctor what he or she thinks about high intensity exercise for you. Don’t settle for, “Yes, that’s fine. Any exercise is good.” Insist on specific instruction. Ask: How many sprints; how long for each one?

On Oct. 5, 1877, Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce tribe formally surrendered to U.S. General Nelson A. Miles in the Bear Paw mountains of Montana, saying, “Hear me, my chiefs: My heart is sick and sad. From where the sun now stands, I will fight no more forever.” He and his people were forcibly relocated to a reservation in Indian Territory.

On Oct. 6, 1908, the Dual Monarchy of Austria-Hungary announced its annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, dual provinces in the Balkan region of Europe that were formerly under the Ottoman Empire’s control.

On Oct. 7, 1916, in what proved to be the most wildly lopsided game in college football’s history, Georgia Tech, coached by John Heisman (the namesake of college football’s most famous trophy), took a 63-0 lead in the first quarter against Cumberland University, eventually trouncing their opponent with a final score of 222-0.

On Oct. 8, 1957, a piano-thumping, bible-school dropout named Jerry Lee Lewis gave the music world what would become the definitive version of “Great Balls of Fire” for Sun Records. Hours into the session, Lewis began arguing with the label’s head, Sam Phillips, that the song was “too sinful” for him to record, but Phillips prevailed and the tune quickly became Lewis’ second smash hit, after “Whole Lotta Shakin’ Goin’ On.”

On Oct. 9 2004, Afghans made history by holding their first direct presidential election. Despite security concerns, more than 10 million Afghans had registered to vote, 41% of them women; approximately 8.1 million ultimately cast ballots.

On Oct. 10, 1991, former U.S. postal worker Joseph Harris shot and killed two of his former co-workers at the Ridgewood, New Jersey, post office. The night before, he’d murdered his former supervisor, Carol Ott, with a samurai sword and shot her fiancé, Cornelius Kasten, in the couple’s home. After a four-hour standoff with police at the post office, Harris was arrested. His crime was one of several high-profile attacks that led to the inclusion of the phrase “going postal” in the American vocabulary.

On Oct. 11, 1987, the new AIDS Memorial Quilt, larger than a football field and pieced together with 1,920 panels memorializing those who died from the disease, went on display at the National Mall in Washington, D.C.

COVID vaccine recommended

DEAR DR. ROACH: Should one get the COVID vaccine when they suspect that they have active long COVID? How can one rebuild a good immune system after long COVID? – C.B.

Yes, a COVID vaccine is indicated. The vaccine is safe in people with persistent symptoms after a COVID infection, which is commonly called “long COVID.” Most people don’t see a change in their symptoms. About 20% of people experience improvement, while an equal number experienced a (usually temporary) worsening of their symptoms. The vaccine helps protect people against getting long COVID with future infections.

Regaining normal strength, vitality and resilience after long COVID takes time. The recommended interventions include a tailored exercise program, as people with long COVID have a reduced ability to exercise, and standard recommendations may be too strenuous. At least one study found a benefit for six months of probiotics and prebiotics helping people to recover. Proper sleep hygiene with a goal of 6-8 hours may help. Stress management and psychological support may also play important roles.

There’s no magic bullet when it comes to recovering from long COVID. I have several patients who continue to struggle after getting a severe infection during the beginning of the pandemic, which was over six years ago now.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. ©2026 North America Synd., Inc. All Rights Reserved.

Speeding up the process

by Freddy Groves

An executive order was recently signed that will reduce the time it takes to secure our benefits. The order, signed by President Trump, is titled “Accelerating Access to Veterans’ Benefits and Employment Opportunities.” It accomplishes this by requiring the Department of Defense and the VA to work together and share records from the first day a veteran joins the military.

In the past there have been delays in accessing benefits – education, job training, healthcare and all the others – when a veteran leaves active-duty service, mostly due to antiquated records management.

Now, within 180 days, the order requires the VA and the Department of Defense to update the information technology that will let them share information from day one of a veteran’s service.

Also within 180 days they will create digital tools to streamline the process of a veteran applying for benefits and training offered by the Department of Labor.

Within one month they need to be able to share all the health files and records of a veteran immediately when they are discharged from military service.

Within 120 days, working with Health and Human Services

(HHS), the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and others, the various departments will review any current contracts for information technology to ensure that the contracts include the requirement that any systems with veteran files and health records be compatible with the technology and systems used by the VA and the Department of Defense.

Have you ever known any government activity to move this fast? And that’s not all.

Within 180 days every veteran leaving the service will either be hooked up with jobs in their field (if desired), enrolled in career and tech education or training (again, if desired), and connected with a veteran’s rep who will help with applications for home loans, job placement, education benefits, disability compensation or healthcare.

One thing not to miss is the Department of Defense’s Project Patriot Pipeline (www.mypatriotcareer.mil). This huge website has a wealth of information for veterans, service members and military spouses looking for career development and opportunities.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string’s word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.

GO FIGURE!

		-		-		= 5
-			+		-
		+		÷		= 7
+			+		×
		-		×		= 8

• Running a machine that isn’t full not only wastes energy and water, it also wastes your money because you are paying to run more washes. Always fill the machine – but remember not to overload it! This applies to both your dishwasher and your clothes washer.

• Spring bulbs need a few weeks in the ground to get established before the first of the frosts. If you’re just getting around to planting your spring bulbs, here is a great garden design tip: Use kebab skewers to figure out the bulbs’ placement in the garden.

• “Place an ice cube (or chips) in carpet divots left behind by furniture legs. This will help the fibers “plump up,” and the spot will disappear!” – A.L. in Utah

• Felt circles are great for putting under small appliances on the kitchen counter. They shift better, but they don’t scratch the countertops. You can find them at the hardware store, or make your own custom ones by cutting out what you need from a piece of felt and attaching it to the bottom of your appliance with double-stick tape or even a drop of glue!
